CATCHIN' FISH. Darrell Fortae, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Fortae of Collinsville, pulls in another "whopper" during a family outing Tuesday afternoon at Horseshoe Lake State Park. He and his brother, Eddie, enjoyed the thrill of catching several feisty bluegill, despite their size. This placid scene contrasts the political turmoil jeopardizing expansion of the park. (Press-Record Photo by Pat Foley)

Threat to lake park's future?

By GARY SCHNEIDER
of the Press-Record

"I was going along making it easy for them, but if they make it hard for me, I'm going to fight," William "Bill" Nichols says of the state's attempts to purchase his land to expand Horseshoe Lake State Park.

Nichols contends he was ready to move from his lakefront property onto another farm when his home-to-be became embroiled in a zoning dispute with the county. Now, Nichols says, if he does not get permission from the county to put catfish-raising ponds on his new property, he plans to make it difficult for the state to purchase his Horseshoe Lake property.

State officials, however, disagree that Nichols can make it difficult to obtain his property for the park. Clyde Wilkes, chief of public affairs for the St. Louis District, U.S. Corps of Engineers, says that if the state is unable to agree with Nichols on a fair price for the property, condemnation proceedings will be initiated and a court will decide a fair price.

A central issue in the dispute is whether Nichols' refusal to sell his property willingly will affect the federal government's determination of what property will be purchased to replace wildlife areas being destroyed by construction of the new Alton Locks and Dam.

Nichols told the sewer and drainage committee of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce Monday afternoon he was told his refusal to sell his property willingly may result in an end to plans for expanding the state park. He quotes Craig K. Donis, an attorney in the real estate section of the Corps of Engineers, as saying the government won't fight him. "They said they have hundreds of places to put their money and won't fight," Nichols paraphrased Donis.

However, a call to Donis was referred to Wilkes for comment and Wilkes said Donis apparently was misunderstood.

Wilkes said the Corps is mandated to replace wildlife areas lost to the Alton locks project somewhere in the bi-state area and the state Department of Conservation has indicated it would like the property to be Nichols' 524 acres on Horseshoe Lake, which would complete the proposed park.

"We are conducting a preliminary survey to identify various pieces and to come up with a recommended plan for mitigating wildlife refuge lost in the Alton project. Our plan will be sent to higher headquarters for approval and, if it is approved, we will be acquiring

Will pull plug on stoplights

By PAT FOLEY
of the Press-Record

The Illinois Department of Transportation has proposed the removal of all traffic signal lights at Third, Sixth and 12th streets on Madison Avenue to provide a substantial savings in energy and maintenance costs, but the Madison City Council members have their reservations about the proposal.

A letter from IDOT, read by City Clerk John Bellico at the regular meeting of the Madison City Council Tuesday night, indicated a recent engineering investigation by the department found the traffic signals at the three intersections on Madison Avenue "are no longer justified."

A change in traffic conditions resulting from the routing of Illinois Route 3 around the city was the reason given for the proposed removal of the signals, which "would provide reduced fuel consumption, carbon monoxide emissions and travel time for motorists using the three intersections."

The IDOT proposal, which calls for a 90-day trial period, during which the signals would be covered, would establish a four-way stop at the Third Street intersection, but does not include stop signs at the Sixth Street or 12th Street intersection for traffic on Madison Avenue.

Police Chief Donald Brick contended that removal of all traffic control at Sixth and 12th streets will sharply increase driving speeds of motorists on Madison Avenue. Concern over the IDOT proposal also was voiced by many of the aldermen present at the meeting.

Several expressed fear that the complete elimination of traffic control on Madison Avenue at Sixth and 12th streets might endanger the lives of motorists using the intersections. The proximity of First National Bank in Madison and Schermer Brothers Grocery, the city's only major grocery store, and garden shop near these two intersections was pointed out by several aldermen as a major reason for concern and displeasure with the IDOT proposal.

In response to the IDOT proposal, the council unanimously recommended that the city send its own proposal, which asks for a 30-day trial period and the establishment of four-way stops at all three intersections.

Bellico, city clerk and a vice president of the Madison bank, contended, "those intersections (at Sixth and 12th streets) will be a death trap without some type of traffic control."

Another factor which influenced the department's findings and proposal is the age of the existing installations, which have caused maintenance problems due to the lack of availability of some parts and further difficulty

Serve search warrants on Quiet Valley homes

"It's a bad experience to have to do something like this," Madison County Sewer Superintendent Gene Futch said yesterday after searching private homes. "But when I get through with Quiet Valley, Sunny Dell Acres (in Mitchell) is next."

The threat by Madison County Sanitary Sewers Special Service Area One to use search warrants to find homeowners illegally pumping ground water in the county sewer lines was realized yesterday morning by five Quiet Valley homeowners.

The experience was unpleasant for both George and Betty Boston, 13

Lilly Court, Pontoon Beach, who were the only ones among the five test cases allegedly not involved in the improper use of the system, according to Futch.

Boston said his wife was alone at the time of the home search. "My wife was upset. Very much so. It upsets me to be subjected to the warrant."

The homeowner said he may or may not have received warning letters sent to Quiet Valley residents, requesting them to make appointments for volunteer home inspections. "I didn't see a reason to respond to it (a letter)," Boston said, who believes there "has to be some good cause" before allowing officials to inspect a private home.

"This sounds like a police action," The Boston residence was selected at random from among 24 other Quiet Valley homes, owned by those who also had refused appointment requests. Other residents had complied with the scheduling of voluntary inspections.

Futch said the county sewer district planned last Monday to obtain all 24 search warrants from a Madison County judge, but decided to obtain only five at a time, due to

Assails town tax collectors

By BILL WINTER
of the Press-Record
(First of two articles)

Unhappy that the Madison County Circuit Court has barred him from collecting taxes in Granite City, Venice, Nameoki and Edwardsville townships until Sept. 1, County Treasurer Mick Henkhaus this week assailed the past performance of township tax collectors.

He blamed townships for delays and inaccuracies, and said a centralized collection process coordinated by his office would better serve taxpayers and taxing agencies.

The four townships have said they need to collect and distribute initial tax receipts to help hard-pressed taxing bodies that are being forced by the county's slowness to borrow large sums.

The five Quad-City area banks are assisting local town collectors in collecting initial tax installments. In Edwardsville, the work is being done by the township tax collector.

Henkhaus reiterated that local banks will be barred from accepting taxes after Sept. 1.

He denied that this decision by him is intended to punish them for cooperating with the townships. He said he is planning to accept second installments by mail only—from Granite City, Nameoki, Venice and Edwardsville taxpayers—in the hope of minimizing confusion.

In any case, Henkhaus said, he doubts that the "foot traffic" of taxpayers is significant in helping financial institutions attract new banking customers.

In discussing the issue of township versus county collection, he said only three of the 102 Illinois counties still permit taxes to be collected at the township level.

Henkhaus asserted that many Illinois townships have been slow to forward taxes to governmental bodies and yet have earned nothing while retaining the funds.

In sharp contrast, the county treasurer said, he made six distributions to taxing bodies in September and October—"before I had to GC Steel execs drive foreign cars?

By NANCY WEIL
of the Press-Record

On any given day during the first shift, about 60 foreign automobiles can be spotted in the various Granite City Steel parking lots. At least five can be found during that shift in the executive lot.

It may be ironic that some Granite City Steel employees choose to drive foreign automobiles, containing foreign steel, but those steel employees, like many other Americans, apparently found foreign cars attractive because they are economical. Rising oil prices in the 1970s forced an increase in the trend of foreign car purchases in the U.S. This had a dramatic effect on the automobile and steel industries. No city was exempt from the outcome.

In an effort to control the move away from buying American automobiles, a bill was introduced in the U.S. House of Representatives Dec. 8, which restricts the manufacturing and distribution of foreign cars sold by companies in this country.

The bill is receiving heavy support from the United Auto Workers, the prime industry sponsor, William Hart, administrative assistant to Rep. Price, said. It also is supported by the National Consumer's League and the Consumer's Federation of America, the two leading consumer groups in the U.S.

EXECUTIVE PREFERENCE. Five foreign cars were counted last week during the first shift in the Granite City Steel executive parking lot on 20th Street. There were two Volkswagens, one

Honda, a Porsche and a Datsun sports car on the "employees only" lot. Fifty-five other foreign cars were spotted in various GC Steel lots during the first shift. (Press-Record Photo)

POLLY STRACK

All's well ...that ends well

By NANCY WEIL
of the Press-Record

Polly Strack, a resident of Eduardo Drive, does not feel like a celebrity. She does not act like one either. Unlike those of celebrity status, Mrs. Strack does her own laundry and cleans her own house. But it is undoubtedly a blessing to Mrs. Strack and her husband of 47 years, Ben, that she is able to perform such housewife's duties.

In early July, Mrs. Strack underwent stroke prevention surgery at St. Louis University Medical Center after suffering a series of symptoms, including an alteration in her speech, numbness in her right arm and severe headaches.

Near fame, which Mrs. Strack brushes aside, came about when Channel 2 requested permission to televise Mrs. Strack's surgery. "I'm no hero, I was scared," she said.

Fear was more of a factor for the Stracks than the others facing the same surgery—which, she said, is considered to be a minor operation—because Mrs. Strack has a heart condition that was first diagnosed in 1980. The Stracks' cardiologist assured her

WARRANT ARREST

Ricky A. Pulley, 22, of 2224 Madison Ave., was arrested at 19th Street and Edison Avenue during the weekend on an active warrant alleging failure to pay a fine on a criminal damage to property charge. He appeared before Associate Judge P. J. O'Neil and was ordered to pay on face a seven-day jail commitment. Pulley was taken to the Madison County Jail at Edwardsville the following day.

TRESPASS CHARGE

After he allegedly refused to leave the home of Ethel Tapp, 219 Fourteenth St., when requested by the occupant and an officer, Elmer L. Briggs, 66, of 2233 Grand Ave., was arrested during the weekend and charged with criminal trespass to property. Briggs was released on payment of a $60 cash bond.

Workshop on water resources

It is one of Illinois' most valuable resources. Farmers, industry, sports enthusiasts, all of us depend on it. It gives life to millions of acres of corn, it's brewed into thousands of glasses of beer—or it can leave hundreds homeless in a matter of hours.

On Wednesday, July 28, the Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs will co-sponsor a day-long workshop on Illinois' water resources with the Illinois Association of Community Action Agencies entitled Community Water Issues In The '80s. The program is aimed at local governments, community action agencies, and any organization interested in obtaining a better understanding of water—using it, controlling it, keeping it clean.

Speakers will provide detailed technical presentations on topics such as flooding, drought, operation maintenance problems of utilities, and other topics.

Representatives from state agencies will discuss funding sources and enforcement responsibilities of water and sewer systems.

The workshop will be held at the Sheraton Inn, 3090 East Stevens Drive, Springfield, July 28 from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. The registration fee, which includes a luncheon, is $10. Interested persons may contact Mike Ayers of the Illinois Association of Community Action Agencies at 1-217-789-0125 for further information.

ALLEGED TRESPASSING
After allegedly being observed getting into an Illinois Power truck and placing something into a sack, officers arrested Anthony Marsala, 77, of 205 Madison Ave., Madison, who reportedly took two empty soda bottles from the vehicle. He was charged with criminal trespass to property and was released on notice to appear.

AARP served picnic

Granite City Chapter 1340 of the American Association of Retired Persons, Inc., had a picnic supper at the township hall last week. After cleaning away the picnic, a short business session was led by President Ruth Allen. She welcomed six visitors.

Ruby Corbett led the prayer, followed by the Pledge of Allegiance. Evelyn Fildes read the June minutes. Juanita Crawley gave the financial report.

Elizabeth McCoy, membership chairman, introduced eight new members: Francis Zabala, Ruth and Will Vaughn, Dorothy Boyer, Fred Bolliger, Helen Amelung and Harley A. and Lavada Keller.

Irene Kadanec, community affairs, told the audience of the two volunteer services sponsored by the men of the chapter—the penbearers service, which is offered to any family needing it, and the five men of the club who drive for the Red Cross to take patients to hospitals and treatments.

She also reminded all the members that the committee is still open to suggestions for the annual award to a worthy project.

Marie Baker, sunshine chairman, said she sent 11 get well and two sympathy cards. It was noted that Bud Newman, a member, died the day before.

Helen Bertacchi reminded the members that Gene McMurtry, director of the Double G Dance group, who is returning next month, is the son of the President Ruth Allen.

Due to the inability of the piano accompanist to attend the meeting, the sing-a-long was postponed, but games were enjoyed after the business session.

A recommendation of the board to send $100 to the Elmer Percy Andrus Foundation was unanimously approved. An announcement was made that anyone taking the 55th anniversary now offered will be eligible for a discount in the cost of his auto insurance.

Juanita Drawley, president of the Senior Clubs Council, said that the council is sponsoring a dance Aug. 2 at the Township Hall. Helen Bertacchi said that a tour of SIU buildings and departments will be July 20, to meet on the visitors' parking lot at 9 a.m. Groups of 20 will be accompanied by guides into the various service facilities, not normally viewed by visitors.

Caroline Lux announced that there were 151 in attendance. Jog and Mildred Votoupal were congratulated for their 50th wedding anniversary. Attendance prizes were awarded to Lavada Keller, Mable Clark, Dorothea Ashley, Rosalee Butler, Nadine Brady, Evelyn Fildes, Edna Isham, Frank Shifter, Marie Toth, Sarah Fanning, Rose Mary Breyer and Harley A. Keller.

Games were played with the assistance of Oscar Ash, Clyde Myer, Caroline Lux and Victor Janssen.

Openings for bike ride across state

There's still enough time—but barely—for bicyclists to sign up for the Aug. 15 to 21 cross-Illinois bicycle ride called "Bicycle Across the Magnificent Miles of Illinois" (BAMMI), according to Mike Fitzmaurice, vice president of the Illinois Credit Union League and general chairman of the ride. Co-sponsored by the league and the Chicago Lung Association, the ride has two versions: A 420-mile trek starting in Chicago and ending in Alton, and 60- to 70-mile day-long jaunts through major regions along the way.

Entry fee for each day-long ride—the one recommended for casual riders—is $8, and includes a commemorative tee-shirt (meals and other extras are available at the rider's expense). Day-long rides are scheduled between:

Chicago-Joliet, Aug. 15; Joliet-LaSalle-Peru, Aug. 16; LaSalle-Peru-Peoria, Aug. 17; Peoria-Springfield, Aug. 18; Springfield-Quincy area, Aug. 19; Quincy area-Peoria-Marquette Park, Aug. 20, and Peoria-Marquette Park to Alton, Aug. 21.

Entry fee for the week-long ride—recommended for truly experienced cyclists—is $50, and includes luggage transportation, camping and bike maintenance arrangements, and a commemorative tee-shirt. Meals and return-trip accommodations are extra. Persons interested in one-day rides may call 1-312-920-3200. For more information on the entire trip, riders may contact the Chicago Lung Association, 1440 W. Washington, Chicago, 60607, 1-312-343-2000.

Great veterans' advisory council

Governor James R. Thompson signed an Executive Order during the weekend creating an advisory council in the Department of Veterans Affairs to provide a better line of communications between state government and veterans in Illinois.

"The ability of the state, through the Department of Veterans Affairs, to identify and address the issues of significant concern to Illinois veterans is dependent upon close interaction and steady communication with veterans," the governor said in the order.

"I believe that it is important to establish a more formal process by which the Department may be advised of the issues and concerns most important to Illinois veterans," he said.

"An advisory council provides a forum within which issues can be discussed," he said. Thompson, addressing the 64th Annual Convention of the Illinois American Legion, said that the five-member council will be comprised of veterans and will not include an employee of the Veterans Affairs Department.

The governor said that the advisory panel is similar to a commission that was disbanded several years ago when the department was elevated to Cabinet level status, a link that he said needs to be re-established.

The advisory Council will "review and study the issues and concerns that are most significant to Illinois veterans," the governor said in the order, and will advise the department on those matters.

The panel also will make an annual report to the governor and make recommendations for future action.

During a speech in June to a Veterans of Foreign Wars Convention in Chicago, Thompson announced plans for the advisory council and outlined its purpose. He signed the order Saturday, formally creating the council.

Named in 4 GC, Venice charges

Charged by both Venice and Granite City police, Alan Boyd Konerman, 19, Lebanon, was transferred Tuesday to the Madison County jail.

He pleaded innocent in Granite City on Monday afternoon, when his bail was set at $800 cash.

A petty theft charge initially was filed in connection with an incident at the Sonic service station, 1817 Madison Ave., at 10:40 p.m. Sunday. A man had left without paying $19.75 for 15.4 gallons of gasoline.

His blue auto sped away, traveling south on Madison Avenue, and at 10:50 p.m. it was halted by Venice officers in the 600 block of Broadway.

After agreeing to following police to the service station, the motorist instead attempted to flee.

The auto is said to have traveled at a high speed over the Broadway viaduct and then Madison Avenue, turning right onto Market Street in Madison. Officers stopped it again, this time at Washington Avenue and Market.

Venice police filed charges of illegal transportation of alcohol (two cans of beer in the rear seat), fleeing to elude an arresting officer, and driving with a suspended license. The theft charge was filed by Granite City officers.

Energy assistance available through EOC

Energy assistance to help pay cooling costs is available until Sept. 30 for low- and moderate-income households under the Illinois Home Energy Assistance Program (IHEAP). It was announced this week.

The Medically Necessary Cooling Component program is designed for households where a medical condition requires use of a cooling system in the home. All applications for cooling assistance must be accompanied by certification from a qualified medical professional.

"The IHEAP cooling component program helped more than 23,000 families last summer," according to the Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs (DCCA) Director Peter B. Fox. "We hope even more eligible families take advantage of the opportunity this year."

Assistance is available as a one-time payment directly to the household or to the utility vendor. Payments range from $60 to $180, averaging $100. The funds are obtainable through local agencies.

Households in need of summer cooling energy assistance may contact the Madison County Opportunity Commission to obtain information locally on eligibility and medical certification requirements, or call DCCA's energy hotline at 1-800-252-8643.

"We want everyone to know that the Illinois Home Energy Assistance Program has money available for summer cooling costs," added Fox, "and we want to make sure that all qualified households get the help they need."

IHEAP funds still are available for home heating assistance, also. This assistance can be applied to last winter's fuel bills or for credit on the household's energy account, it was noted.

Application forms may be obtained by calling or writing the Madison County Economic Opportunity Commission, 3034 Godfrey Road, Godfrey, Ill., 62035, telephone 1-466-0900. Ruben Williams is the EOC director.

Picked for 'Who's Who'

Teresa Grace of Granite City has been named in "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges." The editorial staff of that publication and Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville have announced that the 1982 edition, which honors Miss Grace, has been selected as being among the country's outstanding campus leaders. Campus nominating committees and editors of the annual directory included Miss Grace based on her academic achievement, service to the community, leadership in extracurricular activities, and future potential.

Beware: battle against mosquitos underway

By PAIGE ST. JOHN
Prepare for battle.

The air raid sirens went off last spring when entomologists warned of a record-breaking hatching of floodwater mosquitos. Invading forces of the spring mosquitos were expected to fly in from the flood plains and backwaters where they breed.

With our cans of Off, bottles of Cutter's, Bug Zappers and citronella candles, we waited, armed to the teeth.

And we waited... There were mosquitos, but not in the force predicted. The onslaught of floodwater mosquitos failed to arrive, a University of Illinois entomologist said, because of an unexpected change in the weather this spring and early summer. The air was just too cool and too dry to nurture the broods of biters.

Don't lay down the artillery just yet, University of Illinois entomology specialist Chuck MacMonegle warns. The war is just starting.

The real mosquito pest of the summer, the North American house mosquito, is just starting its hatching season.

This time, the weather is just right, MacMonegle said: warm, still nights, rainy days, high humidity. Beautiful weather to go biting.

Whereas the floodwater mosquito was polite enough to attack only out-of-doors, Culex, the house mosquito, is more than willing to zip inside and lay siege during the night. Piespiens is a real pest.

And because the weather conditions are just right, house mosquitos will more than make up for the light showing their flood plain cousins put in, MacMonegle said.

The allies (homeowners) have an edge over the enemy. House mosquitos are poor flyers, MacMonegle said, and even the lightest breeze will ground them. Therefore, they must brood near their intended hosts.

The mosquitos can be licked, he said, if care is taken to drain ditches, bird baths and other standing pools of water near residential areas. It does not take much water to support a thriving batch of the mosquito larvae, Macmonegle said, and only one week to 10 days is needed for them to hatch, mature and fly off in search of a blood meal.

A third mosquito variety, monstrous in size, should also be making its presence known off and on all summer long.

Backwater mosquitos are several times the size of the house mosquito, MacMonegle said. But the giants are just temporary pests, he said, and only appear for a few days at a time, usually a week or so after heavy rains.

There are 1,700 or more species of mosquito, but when it comes to killing them, a mosquito is a mosquito.

Individuals can gain temporary relief from the vampires by wearing a "repellent" containing the active ingredient DEET. Actually, MacMonegle said, DEET does not repel, but confuses the mosquito and camouflages humans.

Mosquitos home-in on their quarry by sensing heat, moisture and carbon dioxide. DEET interferes with that sensing ability.

People outside during the mosquito hours (when the sun sets and when it rises again) may want to avoid perfumes and colognes. Mosquitos were originally flower feeders and many are still attracted by anything that smells sweet, MacMonegle said. The male of the species still relies on nectar as a food source.

For some reason, mosquitos are also attracted to dark clothing, the entomologist added.

Homeowners can wage a short-term attack on the enemy if they are planning a backyard activity. Commercial sprays and foggers should be directed into bushes, shrubs and tall grasses... anywhere it is dark and cool during the day. That's the type of coffin these miniature Count Draculas choose to rest in during the day.

In areas where there is a high population of mosquitos, widespread fogging may be helpful for a short while. The effect is not long lasting, MacMonegle said, and an appreciable number of mosquitos are zapped only when there is an extremely dense population of them.

For that reason, he said, many cities and towns are giving up on fogging city streets on a regular basis. Just as useless, MacMonegle said, are the bug zappers that attract flying insects and then electrocute them. The ultra-violet light does not attract mosquitos as much as other flying insects.

While the zapper may pop and fizzle all night long, "there is nothing that shows it actually reduces the mosquito population in an area as a whole," MacMonegle said.

If you are a pacifist in this war of man versus mosquito, remember that while the female pest is looking for a blood meal to energize her eggs, she is also acting as host to a variety of diseases. Heart worm disease in dogs is transmitted solely by the mosquito. Flea collars do no good in repelling mosquitos, a Collinsville veterinarian said, and dogs must be put on daily medication during the mosquito season to guard against heart worms.

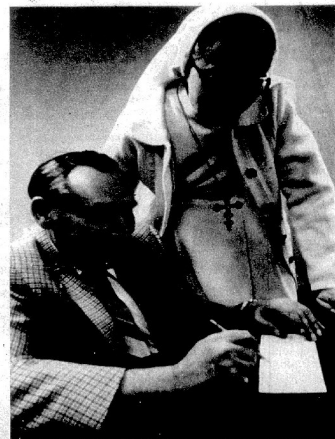

Unchecked, heart worms can kill an infected canine. A mild version of "African Sleeping Sickness" called "St. Louis Encephalitis" also is transported by the mosquito.

3 Injured at 27th-Madison

In a weekend accident on Madison Avenue at 27th Street, three persons sustained injuries. Taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center was Stephen K. Johnson, 16, of 2965 Buxton Ave., who was treated for a laceration to the forehead, had X-rays taken and was released.

A vehicle operated by Johnson and a car driven by Gregory Jackson, 25, of 2246 Bern Ave., collided at the intersection, with the Jackson auto then striking the vehicle of Debra K. Hannigan, 25, of 27th Street, which was halted for traffic on 27th Street.

Jackson and Priscilla Long, 24, of 4010 Braden Ave., a passenger in Johnson's vehicle, also were injured, a report stated.

CHEERFUL GIVER. It has been said, "The Lord loves a cheerful giver." and Sister Mary Thomas, president of St. Elizabeth Medical Center, says that Leo Wolf of L. Wolf Co., contractors, must fit that description. Wolf is shown writing out a check for a significant contribution to the medical center as Sister Mary Thomas observes.

County hiring only temporary workers

By JIM SCHLUETER
County Clerk Evelyn Bowles and Circuit Clerk Willard "Butch" Portell fired some heated words at the Madison County Board's finance committee after they were questioned about hiring some temporary employees.

Some part-time workers hired by the two were interpreted as full-time workers by a new data processing program that monitors county employees and the finance committee sent a letter to the two elected officials about the hiring.

The county, which faces a $2 million budget deficit in 1983, has a policy not to hire additional employees.

Miss Bowles and Portell told the committee they had made no permanent hirings and that they were offended by the letters they received.

"I resented the fact that I was chastised and treated like a five-year-old," Miss Bowles said. "My track record proves itself."

She said that two of her workers signed up for vacations between July 2 and July 12, long before Miss Bowles found out that when this year's tax bills would have to be prepared for data processing.

To get the necessary manpower, she hired an ex-worker of hers for 3 1/2 weeks to help out.

It cost the county $83. But the computer program extended the temporary worker's pay rate over 52 weeks, and it appeared that Miss Bowles had hired a new worker for a $13,000 salary.

$93 million in corporate replacement taxes mailed

Checks totaling $93 million in corporate personal property replacement taxes are being sent to local units of government as the fifth of eight payments to be made during 1982, according to J. Thomas Johnson, director of the Illinois Department of Revenue.

The total distributed so far this year to the 4,790 cities, counties, school districts and other local taxing bodies is $300 million, according to Johnson.

The largest share of this replacement tax money—or 52 percent—goes to the state's 1,014 public school districts.

Coming in second in the amount received are the state's 1,263 municipalities, which receive 20 percent of the total. Next are the state's 102 counties, which receive a little under nine percent; park districts receive five percent; sanitary districts and junior college districts each receive nearly four percent, and road districts and townships each receive less than two percent.

Other districts, each of which received less than one percent of the total, include forest preserves, fire, library, airport, mass transit, hospital, conservation, TB sanatorium, public health, mosquito, because of law students that he hires for the summer at $3.50 an hour for courtroom work.

In the non-summer months, Portell hires retired men to staff the courtrooms, but he gives them the summer of and hires the law students.

"Every year I tell the older men to take off during the summer," Portell said to the committee.

"I hire the law students, who are excellent employees, and it saves the county. If you want me to go backwards, I will."

Committee member Don McLean, Edwardsville, told the two elected officials that the committee was only trying to learn more about the personnel needs of the county departments.

"This is really a prelude to the big problem we will have in next year's budget."

"We're trying to get a closer look while bothering office holders as little as possible," McLean said.

"We're trying to learn what's going on. We're not trying to affront anybody."

Director of Administration Mary Kane said the letters, which were sent to all department heads who had employees that showed up on the computer program's list, could have been worded better.

However, she said, the committee's intentions were important.

"The finance committee would like an explanation which would benefit both parties," she said. "The employee change list is there to better assess financial needs."

PUBLIC AID MEDICAL ASSISTANCE SIGNED
Gov. James R. Thompson has signed Senate Bill 1654, providing a method for determining hospital rates in the public aid medical assistance program for 1982-83 fiscal year. The bill, which seeks to "contain" hospital spending, provides a mechanism for some hospitals to seek financial relief.

The measure also contains a provision to form a working fund to be used to help public aid clients or applicants verify their eligibility for assistance.

City cracking down on weeds on abandoned lots

Granite City residents who enjoy sitting back and watching the grass grow could end up footing a mowing bill from the city, which now is authorized to cut any lawn or lot exceeding eight inches in height, according to a stricter city weed control ordinance approved Tuesday.

A previously-established eight-inch weed height limit required the city to seek a court order before weeds could be trimmed.

City Inspector Emerald Dawes and First Ward Aldermen Everett Morlen and Casmer Skubish led their own campaigning for improved resident awareness of the weed problem last Friday by conducting a tour of a lot considered the worst example of neglect in the city.

As Dawes, Morlen and Skubish waded through the weed-choked lot in the 2800 block of Lincoln Avenue, they had to side step a torn mattress, scraps of lumber, and concrete blocks jutting out at odd angles among sticky purple thistles.

Skubish said he had tried in vain to rid the block of the nuisance lot, but he found the previous city ordinance caused delays and prevented the city from stepping in and taking care of the problem.

Ownership of the lot, meanwhile, had changed. Dawes said that last year city employees hauled three truckloads of trash from the same Lincoln Avenue lot themselves.

On Saturday, the day after the lot tour, the property was finally cleaned and cut. A spokesman for Sam Wolf Realty, Inc., current owner of the site, said they were unaware of the severe condition of the lot, which they recently acquired after a default by the past owners. Dawes said that in an average summer week, youth crews under the federally-funded CETA (Comprehensive Training and Employment Act) program cut about 25 lots a week that have been neglected by property owners. The average lot trimming costs the owner between $20 to $50, Dawes said.

Some lots are cut by permission of the owners, who are later billed. Some are cut by court order. Other lots are simply cut by the city employees after a fruitless effort to find owners.

Dawes said a new twist to the yard trimming has been added by the adverse economic conditions, which have caused some former residents to lose their homes. Federal mortgages laws, protecting the former owners, mean abandoned homes and more neglected lots.

Under the new ordinance, a lien can be placed on a home if the weed cutting bills is not paid within 60 days.

All's well—

the surgery was necessary and tried to dispel her fears. Her faith (the family is devoutly Roman Catholic) and the closeness of her family helped her reconcile herself to the surgery.

The Stracks' five children waited outside the operating room as the surgery was performed and a piece of blockage was removed from a main artery on the left side of Mrs. Strack's neck.

The first incident leading to the stroke prevention surgery occurred June 6 as the Stracks prepared for a family reunion in Cape Girardeau, Mo., where Mrs. Strack was born. Mrs. Strack noticed that her speech was different than normal.

"My tongue seemed thick," she said. It lasted only a few seconds, so Mrs. Strack did not become terribly concerned. Plus, she was busy preparing for the family gathering and, with company coming in, her thoughts were on the festivities.

As she was talking to her daughter, Florence Reznak, on the telephone the following week, the speech problem occurred again. "Florence said, 'what's wrong mom? You sound like you're drunk,'" Mrs. Strack related.

The speech change happened two more times. Mrs. Strack started to have headaches and, as she was sitting in her grandfather's old rocking chair in the living room, she temporarily lost feeling in her right arm. Unable to raise her arm, she picked it up with her left hand and set it in her lap. As soon as she tried to move her fingers, feeling returned and the incident passed.

While describing the "episodes," Mrs. Strack demonstrated how she moved her right arm into her lap. The growing concern she felt was emphasized in her voice.

An attractive woman, at age 66 Mrs. Strack still has a good figure and a lively spirit. She said her children teased her that if she could not talk after the surgery, she would be in trouble. "I do like to talk," she admitted.

Unlike someone who talks merely for the sake of gossip or someone who jabbers incessantly, Mrs. Strack is a conversationalist, who asks a lot of questions to show her own interest. Her speech, it seems, is not all that extraordinary to her and she would rather hear what others have to say.

Dressed in white, mid-thigh length shorts, white canvas shoes and a striped blouse, Mrs. Strack was prepared to deal with the laundry the day she was interviewed only three weeks after her surgery. The only visible sign of the operation was a four or five-inch scar starting below her left ear and stopping before the front of her neck. It is healing well and only upon a second, very close, look can the newness of the scar be discerned.

"I'm still a little weak," she said, "but I feel fine." Mrs. Strack cannot lift heavy objects or push herself too much, but she is accustomed to a less rigorous lifestyle because of her heart condition. Still, her agility and vigor would embarrass some a third her age.

The day she returned home after 12 days in the hospital Mrs. Strack found that laundry needed to be done. "I just lit in and did it," she recalls.

Staying active has helped, she says. Her regular schedule of going to the beauty shop every week also has been kept. "I don't want to have my husband take her, but decided to drive herself."

Her children and grandchildren have been pitching in to help cook meals and generally to check on how Mrs. Strack is feeling. Besides Mrs. Reznak of Granite City, the Stracks have two other daughters, Rose Hilker and Mrs. Jane Talley, and two sons, Bob and Jim. They have 24 grandchildren.

Mrs. Strack herself comes from a family of 10, so she received numerous phone calls and cards each day of her hospital stay. One letter, from her 89-year-old cousin, Mrs. Josie Wegener of Afton, Mo., was particularly welcome. Mrs. Wegener saw Mrs. Strack's surgery on television.

"Polly, I saw all the way down your throat. I could see your NAVEL. Blood guts," the letter said in part.

The letter did Mrs. Strack a world of good. "I think I was feeling a little sorry for myself," she said. Her children, however, would not stand for her feeling sorry about her state, she said.

Considering that Mrs. Strack entered the hospital for tests the same day she went to her cardiologist with her symptoms, she had little time to consider her situation.

Except to realize how frightening the prospects were, "I didn't go into the hospital for surgery," she said.

The decision to allow Channel 2 to televise the surgery came about in Mrs. Strack's hope that it would help others to see that such surgery is available and relatively routine.

Now that it is all over, Mrs. Strack said she would not like to go through it all again. Her husband had a heart attack in September, "I almost lost him," she said. Her voice was trimmed with a hint of sadness and she was distant, as if she was remembering the day it all happened. She smiled quickly, however, for she still has her husband. And, despite her initial fears, she thought of surgery, he still has her.

The fence, secured with padlocks, surrounds an above-ground pool. The pool is about four feet tall and has a diameter of about 14 feet, officials said.

Aware of the danger, she chased the children away, warning them not to enter the Dean yard. She then went to mow the front lawn.

Rural tax opposed

By JIM SCHLUETER
Setting up a special service area to maintain the current level of police protection in unincorporated areas of Madison County would be too costly for rural taxpayers, according to a report by the county's legislative committee.

The report, submitted at Wednesday's Madison County Board meeting, said residents would have to be taxed 46 cents per $100 assessed valuation to maintain the level of protection provided now by the sheriff's department.

The committee recommended instead that each township be allowed to decide how much protection it wants and then contract out for that protection.

"The special service area is a good idea," board member William Haine, Alton, told the board. "But the tax rate would be so heavy, because of a lack of business valuation in unincorporated areas, that I think there ought to be another method."

Because of financial problems awaiting the county in fiscal year 1983, all county departments have been asked to reduce their budgets. However, the sheriff has warned that patrols will be cut back if the sheriff's budget is not increased.

Since this spring, the county has been looking for ways to pay for sheriff's work in rural areas without taxing city dwellers who are already paying for city police.

A proposal for a November referendum calling for a countywide tax to pay for sheriff's protection was defeated in April by the county board.

the $20 court cost for issuing each warrant.

The owners of homes searched yesterday will be expected to pay the cost of the warrant.

The superintendent said the other 19 lack only a judge's signature and will eventually be issued, if necessary. Futch plans to inspect five more Quiet Valley homes next week.

After the Quiet Valley subdivision search has been completed, Futch said, he will concentrate on Sunny Dell Acres, where flow readings have indicated some residents there are using the lines to drain storm water.

Flow readings throughout the Search warrants

district jumped up to six times higher than should be expected after the recent torrential rainfall, according to Futch. The sewer committee last week blamed the flooded sewer lines for a sewage backup in a private residence in Sunny Dell Acres.

Boston said Futch, who was accompanied by a county deputy, entered his home about 10:15 a.m. and took pictures in his basement of a sump pump and its opening. The homeowner said his sump pump was removed before he was connected to the county's sewer system.

They could have come and knocked at my door, and I would have obliged them," Boston said, admitting he would have allowed the inspection without a search warrant. "They were never prohibited from coming into my house."

Futch said any follow-up action on his findings at the other four homes will depend on the state's attorney office in Edwardsville. Under a county sewer system ordinance, violations could be fined $500.

Futch said he will not be issuing warning letters for the Sunny Dell residents, as he did in Quiet Valley. He said that if readings indicate that the state's attorney office in Edwardsville, he will begin knocking on doors. Those that refuse on-the-spot inspections will be subjected to search warrants.

"I'm not going to be very popular," Futch said.

Some steel

in some facet of automobile production. While the Steel spokesmen could not delineate the local plant's percentage, industry observers believe it could be much higher than average.

Before A.O. Smith Corp. closed its automotive frame plant in Granite City Sept. 29, 1980, the percentage was certainly greater. About 90 percent of steel used locally by A.O. Smith for the manufacture of automobile frames was purchased from GC Steel, Floyd Scott, acting plant manager at the closed A.O. Smith plant, said.

Scott and five security guards are the only employees still working at the empty plant. At one time, A.O. Smith employed about 1,400 workers. The work force was reduced to about 650 when the UAW went on strike April 8, 1980.

The UAW and plant management disagreed on wages, examinations after illnesses and other matters, it was reported during the strike. A decision to close the local plant was made during the strike, however, because automobile manufacturers were moving away from the use of full-car frames.

Scott said a domestic content law, had it been enacted several years ago, would not have saved A.O. Smith. "We were building an obsolete product," he said.

Speaking personally, Scott said he "doubts whether it (the proposed legislation) will fly."

So do a lot of others, including Hart, who said that Rep. Price has his doubts. "He believes in the theory behind it," Hart said of Price.

The intent of the bill is to force foreign car manufacturers to move plants to the U.S. The legislation seems, on first glance, to provide an economic deterrent to assembling cars overseas. Those companies totaling the majority of foreign car sales in America would be forced to have parts made here, then shipped for full assembly before finally being sent back to the U.S. for distribution.

But Hart said that certain companies have indicated it still would be cheaper to manufacture and assemble automobiles overseas, even if the majority of parts must be made here.

Voluntary import quotas have not significantly helped restrict foreign car sales either, Hart said. "They're sending fewer cars, but they're sending them over with higher markups, like air conditioning and fancy radios and people are still buying them."

It also is unlikely that the bill would hinder selling of Japanese vehicles, in particular, because "their product lines are geared toward Americans," Hart said.

The UAW, he said, has indicated that, overall, its membership is not concerned about foreign cars being sold here, so long as American workers build the cars.

Basically, there are problems with the idea behind the domestic content law, as it is commonly known, Hart said. There might be "better ways" to formulate such legislation.

"Mr. Price supports the concern of encouraging foreign manufacturers to build their cars here," Hart said.

The proposal will undergo extensive hearings and studies before it passes the House and goes to the Senate, Hart said he believes that Reagan would veto the bill as it currently is written, if it came to his desk.

The problem is that adoption of the bill could discourage American competition with foreign manufacturers if the automobiles were assembled here, according to Otinger's spokesman. The bill could, any day, receive an additional sponsor, which would give it a majority in the House.

The UAW notified Otinger's office Tuesday of a possible sponsor. "The UAW is definitely pushing it. They wrote the bill," the spokesman said. Lobbyists for the bill are presently "very active," he said.

Hart said the proposal could become an issue in the November elections, as has been indicated in national press reports.

Ironically, as Hart was talking from Washington, D.C., he looked out his office window and observed, "An American-made car almost backed into a Japanese truck. Maybe they're trying to say something."

While company executives of Granite City Steel were unavailable for comment, it seems that legislation forcing foreign manufacturers to use American-made parts would have a dramatic effect on the floundering steel industry.

This month's management-employee meetings seem to indicate that GC Steel executives are trying to inform employees about the economic problems of the industry which is in trouble to a large extent because of the automobile industry.

In another twist, a Toyota, which is manufactured in Japan, was spotted last week driving the streets here with license plates starting, "UAW." Coincidence, perhaps.

Job growth tax exemption tabled

By JIM SCHLUETER
One county board member's doubts about a tax abatement ordinance designed to encourage new business in Madison County resulted in the tabling of the proposal at Wednesday's board meeting.

William Haine, Alton, wasn't convinced that tax abatements alone induce new businesses or the expansion of existing firms.

"I wonder if businesses would come to the county for just tax abatements," Haine said. "They also look for markets, good roads and harbors."

New firms as well as existing businesses that expand facilities would be eligible for the abatements, which would be in effect for a maximum of four years.

New firms and expanding firms that would increase the assessed valuation and the work force could receive a 50 to 100 percent abatement on the increase in assessed value under the proposed ordinance.

Existing firms whose expansion would increase assessed valuation but not increase the work force could receive a 25 to 75 percent abatement, while expanding firms that would increase valuation but decrease the work force could receive up to a 50 percent abatement.

Rate hike rally approved, mayor urges involvement

The Granite City Council Tuesday approved a request by the Madison County Citizens' organization to hold a two-hour rally prior to an Illinois Commerce Commission (ICC) hearing on a proposed electric rate increase.

The rally will be conducted in Granite City on July 28, before the 6:30 p.m. ICC hearing at the Granite City Township Hall.

The specific site and starting time for the rally are yet to be announced. "It looks like it's going to be a crowd of people," Alderman Casmer Skubish, First Ward said at the city council meeting Tuesday night.

Skubish was among a group of residents from the Quad-Cities area which traveled to Springfield earlier to register its protest of the proposed Illinois Power rate increases.

Mayor Paul Schuler told the aldermen they should take a "firm stand" against the rate increase, making their views "very well known" at the ICC hearing.

"I feel very strongly about this," Schuler said.

If the rate proposal is approved, Skubish said the city will have to search for funds in order to pay the resulting "huge" street lighting bills.

Gun owners' course planned

A course to teach gun owners the liability and legal requirements of gun ownership in Illinois will be offered by Belleville Area College for the fall semester. "Introduction to firearms" will help students develop skills in revolver, pistol and shotgun shooting; it will cover safe gun handling, care of firearms and moral and ethical considerations of their use, a spokesman said.

Each section of the course will meet from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on two Saturdays.

The first section will meet Aug. 7 and 14 in Highland, and the second will meet Aug. 21 and 28 in Belleville.

The third will be held Sept. 4 and 11 in Cahokia and the fourth will meet Sept. 18 and 25 in Fairview Heights.

Additional classes will be added if there is a demand.

Registration is from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Thursday and from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Friday at the registrar's office at the BAC main campus, 2500 Carlyle Road, Belleville.

Registration for the course ends Wednesday, Aug. 25. For additional information, Quad-Cityans are calling the Administration of Justice program at 235-2700, extension 267.

Prison seen for some in county drug crackdown

By BILL WINTER of the Press-Record

Prison sentences were predicted by some observers this week regarding the July 7 sweep by law enforcement authorities against suspected drug dealers in Madison County.

There is no faltering of prosecution, it was learned, despite the sharp lowering of many bonds and despite Associate Judge Edward Ferguson's weekend rulings dismissing a total of 31 charges against 17 persons.

The dismissals, ordered at the request of the state's attorney, are basically a court housekeeping move, eliminating criminal information documents where they are superseded by grand jury indictments, it was explained.

Indictments now number at least 66 against 36 persons.

There are single counts against 14 defendants, two counts against each of 16 persons, three counts apiece against four people, and four counts each against two defendants.

Quantities of heroin, cocaine, amphetamines, LSD, codeine, valium, placidyl, dilaudid, cannabis, pentazocine and methaqualone were purchased or confiscated between early January and early July.

In many cases, the rendezvous point was a Granite City apartment where transactions were videotaped on a camera hidden behind a one-way mirror.

Drug supply contacts by Quad-Cityans were alleged to have included Indiana, Missouri, Oklahoma, Texas, Florida and Mexico.

Twenty-six persons pleaded innocent July 16 at the Madison County Courthouse in Edwardsville.

An officer of the Metropolitan Enforcement Group of Southwestern Illinois (MEGI) said he views the accumulation of evidence as strong, and adds that some plea bargaining is likely to occur following initial pleadings.

A number of the cases may go to trial, since substantial sentences are to be sought and defendants are unwilling to accept them.

Some persons who are on officials' overall list of 45 persons are considered to be fugitives and are thought to have gone elsewhere.

A few of the persons on the list are being mailed major distributors of controlled substances. As a result of this month's arrests, officials expect a reduction in drug trafficking in the Madison-St. Clair counties area this summer and fall.

In a somewhat related case, a woman has pleaded guilty to a drug charge in St. Clair County, the MEGSI spokesman noted.

Charges that have been dismissed in the Third Circuit Court refer to alleged sales on Jan. 6, 7, 8, 19, 25, 26 and 27, Feb. 9, 16, 23 and 25, April 27, May 7, 18, 21, 24, 26, 28 and 29 and June 9, 9 and 14.

Man captured after chase; 3 charges filed

Randy Iland, 21, of 2317b Washington Ave. was transferred Tuesday to the Madison County jail after pleading innocent to petty theft, resisting arrest and criminal trespass to a vehicle.

His court hearing was held here at 3:40 p.m. Monday. The charges were filed after Doris Bricker of Alton, napping with her husband and child in a parked auto at 6 a.m. Monday at 23rd and Washington, awoke and saw a man opening a door of her car. She screamed and he fled with her purse.

Police were alerted and chased a suspect on foot capturing him in a yard on Washington Avenue. The purse was recovered.

STEVE AUBURN, 12-year-old fiddler, who will perform Friday, July 23, at 8 p.m. on the Troy Music Barn, Highway 162 in Troy. He also will be appearing at the Knoxville World's Fair.

Boys admit burglaries

Arrested early Wednesday in the downtown area, two 15-year-old Granite City boys admitted committing July 15 and July 17 burglaries at the Weather Vane ice cream shop, 23rd Street and Washington Avenue.

They also told of burglarizing Lord Nelson's Game room, 19th Street near Cleveland Boulevard, where they pried a lock and then looted five game machines, taking $30 in coins.

Questioning of the pair led to the solving of several bicycle thefts, authorities said. One bicycle was recovered.

One of the boys commented to officers that he was "glad to get these crimes off my chest."

Curfew charges were filed against the two, who also were held for the burglary investigation.

The Illinois Department of Transportation has approved continuance of a motorcycle safety program at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

The state-funded program teaches safe riding techniques to novice motorcycle riders and is designed to save lives and prevent motorcycle injuries.

The University is offering eight free motorcycle safety courses through the remainder of the summer, starting July 12. The sessions are scheduled July 12 to 23, July 13 to 24, July 26 to Aug. 6, July 27 to Aug. 7, Aug. 9 to 20, Aug. 10 to 21, Aug. 23 to Sept. 3, and Aug. 24 to Sept. 4.

Motorcycles, helmets and insurance are provided for participants. Participants must be at least 16 years old and have parental permission if under 18 years of age.

Those successfully completing the course will be issued a certificate of completion by the Motorcycle Safety Foundation. Many insurance companies recognize this certificate for premium discount purposes.

CHARGED AFTER AUTO COLLISION DOWNTOWN

Andrew Reid, 16, of 1751 Walnut St. was hurt and taken to St. Elizabeth Medical Center for treatment after a collision of westbound autos on Niedringhaus Avenue at Edison Avenue early this week. He had been a passenger in the car of his mother, Mrs. Carol Hood, 1751 Walnut, who hailed for a spotlight.

Damaged areas were the rear of their auto and the front of the car of a boy 15 years old, who was charged with following too closely, driving without a license, and obstructing justice by giving a false name. The young motorist was released to his father pending a hearing on the charges.

PARKING ACCIDENT

John Simmons, 2932 Cayuga St., sustained an injury during the weekend when he was being a truck into a metered parking space at Niedringhaus and Madison avenues and allegedly struck a parked vehicle, owned by James R. Reader, 2031 Missouri Ave.

'East of Eden' showing

"East of Eden," a vintage James Dean movie, will be part of the Summer Film Series sponsored by the student Program Board (SPB) at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, July 25, 26 and 27.

The film is rated G and was directed by Elia Kazan. It is a movie treatment of John Steinbeck's allegorical novel of the Hubble Cain and Abel story, according to SPB secretary Barbara Jurgens.

"East of Eden" is set in Monterey, Calif. on the eve of World War I. James Dean portrays the anguish of a young man unable to please his father, Adam, who is played by Raymond Massey.

Julie Harris also stars in the movie and acts as a mediator between the father and son. Jo Van Fleet is Eve, Dean's fallen mother—a role which won an Academy Award for her.

The film will be shown in the Lounge of the Commons Building at Tower Lake on Sunday, July 25, at 9 p.m. The showings on Monday, July 26 and Wednesday, July 28 will be in the Deja Vu Room of the University Center at 8 p.m.

Admission is $1 for SIUE students with IDs and $1.50 for all others.

For more information, contact the Student Program Board at (618) 692-2617.

Study myths of aging

The "Mid-Summer All-Church Fellowship" at Nameoki Presbyterian Church will begin with a fellowship breakfast this Sunday, June 26, at 7:30 a.m.

Dr. Fred Giraud, director of the ministry with older persons of the Elijah P. Lovejoy Presbyterian Church, will speak on "The Myths of Aging." He is a nationally recognized leader in the ministry with older persons.

Fred Fomellek, Al Babi and Fred Barr will be the hosts for the event, according to the pastor, the Rev. Don R. Pierson.

"You Have a Glory" will be the theme of the morning worship service. The service begins at 10:45 a.m. As in all summer services at the Nameoki Presbyterian Church, casual dress is appropriate. It was noted.

The annual all-church picnic will be at the church following the morning worship service. The board of deacons, under the direction of Jo Ann Watts, has planned a variety of events to follow the potluck dinner. A horseshoe tournament, ring toss, cake walk, white elephant auction and a sing-a-long will provide entertainment for all. It was noted.

"If you are looking for a new church in the community, we invite you to our fellowship," stated Rev. Pierson. Nameoki Presbyterian Church is located at 1700 Pontoon Rd. It also was noted that Sunday school classes begin at 9:30 a.m. with the morning worship service at 10:45.

ARRESTED FOR SALES Paul R. Burnett, 20, Bridgeton, Mo., John Hutton, 33, Affton, and Wendell D. Washington, 28, Ferguson, were arrested at 4:50 p.m. Tuesday at Nameoki Road and Washington Avenue, where items for sale had been displayed on the sidewalk of a pickup truck. Charged with soliciting without a city license, each was freed on $52 bail.

Many over-the-counter medicines are helpful but some unhelpful

By MARY RICHARDS
Illinois Department of Public Health

An adult in reasonably good health actually needs to keep very few over-the-counter medicines on hand. Aspirin is one of them — if the use of it is not abused. There are some people, however, who should not take aspirin. Ulcer patients, for example, because it could cause stomach irritation or bleeding. Nor is the use of aspirin advised during pregnancy or for patients taking anti-coagulants.

There are substitutes for aspirin on the market. There are also coated aspirins recommended for those with stomach ulcers.

Your pharmacist can help you select an aspirin substitute if you need one. Doctors, by the way, frequently prescribe aspirin substitutes.

You might want to stock something for an occasional upset stomach. The most popular products contain both magnesium hydroxide and aluminum hydroxide. They may be used to relieve excess acid conditions, but they should not be used on a regular basis because they may mask the symptoms of a more serious disease.

Second, these products can interfere with the effectiveness of other medications.

Also, they are high in sodium; so they should not be used by anyone who has high blood pressure.

If you are suffering from severe or persistent stomach discomfort, you should see your physician. This is not a time to rely on over-the-counter drugs.

Since almost everyone suffers from colds, coughs and sore throats occasionally, you need something to relieve the aches and pains and to make you feel more comfortable. Aspirin is still the drug preferred by most doctors. Not that aspirin cures a cold; it doesn't. But it does reduce the inflammation and any fever you may have.

The drugs of choice for coughs contain codeine or dextromethorphan. Dextromethorphan is as effective as codeine as a cough suppressant but is not narcotic. Over-the-counter cough suppressants are effective for minor coughing problems.

A word of caution, though. Most of these cough products contain sugar, so they may not be advisable for diabetics.

If you are bothered by a lot of mucus, a cough expectorant will help you, more than a suppressant. Suppressants keep the mucus from breaking up. Decongestants give temporary relief for colds.

Weeds are a garden problem in wet year

By CHRIS DOLL
Area Garden Adviser

The wet growing season of 1982 has made weeds a number one problem for many gardeners.

Continuous wetting has aided weed growth and prevented cultivation or hoeing. Even if cultivation or hoeing has been done, reeding has occurred before the weeds die.

It has been so bad that some gardens have been mowed off to eliminate both weeds and crops.

Weed problems as experienced in 1982 make gardeners wish for weed control alternatives other than the hoe and cultivator.

There are alternatives that include herbicides and mulches. Both look good where used, but there are drawbacks, too.

Mulches this year may keep the soil too wet for optimum growth. This is especially true on potato patches. However, the benefits of weed control and clean vegetables in the case of tomatoes and vine crops make mulches an attractive option.

There is still time to use a mulch for long-season late-growing crops such as peppers, tomatoes, cucumbers, squash, etc. Straw is the most attractive mulch but, grass clippings and even paper can work.

Herbicides or weed killers are not generally suggested for home gardens because of the potential for injury to susceptible crops. Each plant species differs in tolerance to chemicals. Thus, the many fruit and vegetable crops do not permit use of two or even one chemical across the whole garden area.

Where herbicides are

But you should not use nose drops or nose sprays too frequently. They may actually worsen the condition.

Those who want more information about over-the-counter drugs are contacting the Illinois Department of Public Health, Division of Food, Drugs and Diseases, 535 W. Jefferson St., Springfield 62761.

used, the calibration and uniform distribution of the chemical is essential to good weed control without crop injury. Small areas are more difficult to treat correctly than the large commercial fields.

Herbicides registered for vegetable garden use are Dacthal, Treflan and Amiben. Some garden stores have one or more of these products but be sure to read and follow directions for proper rates on tolerant crops.

The other consideration of herbicides is whether the chemical will decompose rapidly enough to permit replanting of the area this fall or next spring.

Thus, weed control remains the number one problem for gardeners.

It is difficult to clean up a weedy garden, but sanitation is a recommended practice. Growing weeds can serve as a host for insects and diseases, and maturing weeds make weeds that will grow in another year.

CENTRAL MANAGEMENT SERVICES, LAW SIGNED Gov. James R. Thompson has signed House Bill 2461, formally creating the Department of Central Management Services (CMS). The bill also transfers the powers and duties of the Department of Personnel and Administrative Services to CMS.

In a fiscal reorganization move earlier this year, Thompson ordered that the new agency be created, saying it would save funds.

'Jobs are state issue' — Cosentino

State Treasurer Jerry Cosentino, Democratic nominee for the office of secretary of state, is on a campaign swing through the 30 southernmost counties of Illinois this week. "Jobs are the issue of this campaign," he said at a press conference in Edwardsville on Monday.

"The Republican power structure in this state, from Gov. Thompson down to his appointed secretary of state, must be held accountable. They have failed the working men and women and must pay for that failure at the polls," the candidate said.

"Some of the counties I will be visiting are suffering from more than 20 percent unemployment. As treasurer of Illinois, I managed to save 10,000 jobs in a Chrysler plant. It would have gone under had we not put through a loan of $20 million."

"The plant is doing well and, already, Chrysler has made the first payment on the loan," Cosentino said.

"We have worked hard to serve the people."

"If we could do what we have done from the treasurer's office, where we have the more powerful officeholders in this state been for the past two years?"

Cosentino said investment programs during his term have brought in more than $700 million in interest to the taxpayers, twice the amount any other treasurer earned.

Cosentino will be host to Democratic county chairmen of the new 22nd Congressional District at a reception this evening at the Mount Vernon Holiday Inn. He also will attend receptions for Cong. Paul Simon and State Rep. Jim Rame.

Testimony on IP rates

The Governor's Office of Consumer Service (GOCS) filed testimony before the Illinois Commerce Commission last week in Illinois Power Company's pending rate case, saying that construction costs should not be included in a rate increase.

Alvin K. Grandys, Director of the GOCS, said the testimony was filed on behalf of GOCS' client, the village of Buffalo.

"Based upon the testimony filed, GOCS is requesting that Illinois Power's request for rate increases be reduced to rates payable to ratepayers to the extent of the construction costs," Grandys added.

IP has requested a 19.9 percent electric rate increase that would raise $41 million. If the ICC disallows CWIP, the result would be a reduction in customers' rates.

HUBBLE COMMISSIONED Wesley J. Hubble, son of Jack D. and Helen Hubble, 2415 Cardinal Ave., has been commissioned a second lieutenant in the U.S. Air Force upon graduation from Officer Training School at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas. The lieutenant was selected through competitive examination for attendance at the school. Hubble now will go to Keesler Air Force Base, Miss., for communications electronics training. The lieutenant is a 1981 graduate of Embury-Riddle Aeronautical University, Daytona Beach, Fla.

Senate Bill 1077, making an exception to the Criminal Procedure Code, permits a child to testify that he or she committed a crime against a child.

The person the child complained to also may testify in court, and that testimony can be used to corroborate the child's statements.

Seek special foster home

Illinois Department of Children and Family Services workers continue to seek a special foster home to care for Gordon, a twelve-year-old boy removed from his parents' home because of child neglect.

Although he is a slow learner, Gordon is of normal intelligence, according to Gail Holshausen, resource development supervisor.

The middle child in a family of three, Gordon is active. He has difficulty at times controlling his behavior.

Described as warm and friendly, Gordon enjoys fishing, doing household chores and playing video games in his spare time. He is also fond of animals. About five feet tall, he has light brown hair and blue eyes and weighs about 90 pounds.

Because of Gordon's behavioral difficulties, prospective foster parents should be willing to work closely with the school and with department social workers, Mrs. Holshausen said.

She explained that foster parents would receive additional compensation of up to $300 per month over the normal $235 monthly fee paid for the care of a teenager, as well as periodic relief through the use of department advocates and homemakers.

Minerva Club aiding Hospice

The Minerva Women's Club of Granite City has assisted numerous non-profit organizations in the area for a number of years. They have supported the Granite City Scholarship Foundation which benefits students from both North and South High School. There is a room named "Minerva" at the Alfa Center for Women honoring this organization. These ladies furnished and decorated the entire room at the center that aids women in distress during a pregnancy.

They have financially assisted St. Elizabeth's Medical Center's Meals on Wheels and for the second time, in the short period that Hospice of Madison County has existed, they have publicly endorsed this home care program that supports the terminally ill patient and his family. The Hospice program has made significant strides this past year. There is still much to be done.

The lack of adequate third-party reimbursement continues to plague Hospice programs throughout the nation. However, great steps have been taken on the national level to change the third party payment system toward the goal that the achieving the goal of making Hospice care available in this area to all those who would benefit from it. The Hospice program has realized financial assistance from numerous civic and church organizations as well as from individuals. A large

The Granite City Saddle Club has recently been approved by the Missouri Girls' Barrel Racing Association.

"Being approved by these two associations will bring us more public support and recognition," remarked Cathy Fowler, club secretary.

Highlights of the show will include the Open Barrels show and the Open Western Pleasure, both to guarantee $200 in prize money. Other events include open halter, ladies western pleasure, fox trotting, open poles, men's western pleasure, open flag race and open plug race.

Assail collector

give them anything"—a year ago and at the same time earned enough interest on the money to pay for half of his office's overall operating costs.

These earnings were of benefit to the county government, which is struggling to balance its income and expenses, he noted.

The county not only does the tax collection task faster, in his opinion, but also does it better.

"My staff's tax collections have been balanced to the penny every year, while Venice Township collections were out-of-balance by $41,602, $24,999 and $287,717 in the 1978, 1979 and 1980 tax years," Henkhaus told the Press-Record Tuesday.

"In those same years, Granite City collections failed to balance by $25,000, $26,539 and $52,376," he added that the out-of-balance allegation refers to overpayments or underpayments to individual taxing districts.

City Treasurer Nick Petrillo of Granite City said Wednesday that, dating back to the years when George Musso was county treasurer, townships were urged to deliver their receipts and records as quickly as possible to permit final reconciliations of all accounts at the county level. Exactly proportional disbursements among the various agencies is impractical in the first of the two tax installments, he added.

Stressing that taxation involves massive work, County Treasurer Henkhaus said "economies of scale" enable greater efficiency to be achieved through county collection.

He said this is a fact that has been recognized by Madison County's 24 townships, most of which no longer elect collectors.

Utilization of the county's data processing department has greatly speeded bill preparation and other duties, he added.

Citing figures prepared by the county data processing staff for the July court hearings that ended in a ruling favoring the townships, Henkhaus said:

"In 1981, this county sent out 105,266 tax bills, including 10,678 mailed to individual taxpayers."

"These bills were sorted in zip code order, saving $2,402 because we were able to use 17-cent stamps instead of 20-cent stamps.

"In 1982, we have lost the postage savings in 17-cent stamps, through including the notices to the people to pay their taxes to the town collectors."

"Also, increased computer time was required for special processing of at least 25,151 of the tax bills, including 11,921 Granite City bills."

Challenging local officials' statements that local collection speeds disbursements to schools, cities, townships and other taxing agencies, Henkhaus denied that the county is slow to collect and forward tax revenue.

"Actually, the opposite is true. By insisting on doing their own collecting, the four townships are causing a delay of at least three or four weeks in closing out the tax books."

"This delays payments to all areas of the county, penalizing both the taxing bodies and the public even though the county and many other townships do not compete with the county."

"Receiving for the remaining townships is completely stopped. The county's 381 optical mark scanner," he related.

"The scanner tape is sent to the data processing office for 'edit' and for cash receipts processing."

"This requires approximately three to four weeks, and during that time no other receipts paid by taxpayers are processed."

"To explain it in more detail, after the scanner tape has been created, the data department must run an edit program to validate the receipts. Normally, at least three edit runs are processed before the input data is balanced."

"All receipts are again run through a computer program called 'cash receipting.' This updates the appropriate record and identifies bills as paid."

"After the receipting, a dummy run of distribution checks must be processed. It is called a dummy run because receipts have already been paid out by the township collector."

"The data office prints checks on stock paper so that my office can verify what should have been paid out to the taxing districts, versus the amount the town collectors actually have paid."

"In all cases, the treasurer's office is forced to balance all of the districts because the collectors do not utilize the same distribution formula."

"In contrast to the townships, we distribute to taxing bodies according to the exact proportion of their rate to the overall rate."

"The schools usually get about 62 percent of the total collected, while the townships distribute to their local taxing bodies without regard to this proportion, leaving it up to us to make up for this later," Henkhaus said.

"The townships' method of distribution, perhaps giving large amounts to several taxing bodies and nothing to other taxing bodies, causes an out-of-balance condition in the real estate tax cycle. This must be corrected before any payments are made to the taxing districts."

"Our records show that, in 1978, town collectors' books were out of balance $2,333,449 by $51,539 in 1979 and $340,941 in 1980."

"In 1981, town collectors were allowed to collect first-half taxes through Oct. 1. The county received the last town collector books Nov. 23."

"With several weeks spent balancing the town collectors' work, computer processing was completed Dec. 22. From Oct. 1 through Dec. 22, 1981, the county could not answer questions regarding tax payments on any bill paid to town collectors."

"This becomes a real problem. As the date of the tax sale draws near, taxpayers want to make sure they are recorded as paid in full."

"Savings and loan associations and banks also are interested, due to the mortgages they are holding."

"In 1981, as many as 100 financial institutions, known as 'taxpaying agents' or 'TPAs,' paid their taxes two times. This caused a refund problem, since town collectors already had paid money to the taxing districts."

ROBERT GLIK, vice president of advertising, promotion and public relations for Glik's Department Stores.

H. He has been appointed Group 'D' vice chairman of the business and commercial accounts for the 1982 United Way Campaign. Glik will supervise six divisions during the campaign, a total of 101 volunteers.

ARREST ON 4 COUNTS

Form local chapter of NOW

The organizing of Tri-Cities NOW, the newest local chapter of the National Organization for Women has been announced by Norma Mendoza, one of the convenors. Tri-Cities is the fourth NOW chapter in the Illinois metropolitan area. Others are Metro-East, East St. Louis and St. Clair-Madison.

Members who join at the 7:30 p.m., Wednesday, July 28, meeting at Nameoki Presbyterian Church, 1700 Pontoon Road, will be charter members of the new chapter.

"The purpose of the Tri-Cities Chapter is to take action to bring women into full participation in the mainstream of American society, exercising all the privileges and responsibilities thereof in truly equal partnership with men."

"Women are disenchanted with a political system which has refused to recognize us as equal American citizens. This is evidenced by the astounding growth in membership by the National Organization for Women. We now have over 9000 members in the state of Illinois."

resulting in the formation of new chapters across the state," Mendoza said. "All persons who agree with our purpose are invited to join us."

Cindy Johnson and Liz Neely, the other convenors, said that the first activity of the Tri-Cities NOW Chapter will be a Women's Equality Day Walkathon at the end of August. Women's Equality Day, August 26, marks the 52nd anniversary of the 19th Amendment to the United States Constitution, which guaranteed women the right to vote.

Johnson, Neely and Mendoza are among local NOW members who have just returned from the 1982 Illinois NOW Convention in Lincolnwood, Ill. New officers of Illinois NOW elected at the convention are: President Anne Courtney, Peoria; Chapter Development Vice-President Naomi Ross, Evanston; Action Vice-President Tina Tchen, Evanston; Secretary Ellen Kordik, Champaign; and Treasurer Elizabeth Nicholson, Chicago.

Urban seeks venue change

The lawyer accused of using a photocopy method to forge court orders in Madison County contended this week that Third Circuit judges are prejudiced against him.

Attorney Ben Urban in a court motion Monday sought a change of venue for his trial.

False court orders were used to release truck drivers' bonds to an attorney. Authorities said more than $100,000 was fraudulently obtained, and some of the allegations have been filed against Urban.

The Collinsville resident, 41, says area judges oppose him because he earlier filed a complaint about them with the judicial commission.

In 1970, Nichols said, a request for topsoil mining by SCA on the property was rejected by the county after a zoning hearing. However, Nichols said that when he purchased the property several months ago, he assured neighbors that his intent is to dig catfish ponds, not to create a landfill. "This is going to be my home. I do not want to look at a landfill. I have always looked at water and I want to look at water," Nichols said.

He said he did not need a county zoning permit to dig on his own property, but did obtain a permit from the state Soil Conservation Service to dispose of the dirt. SCA Services was willing to purchase the dirt and Nichols said he planned to construct an engineer's bridge so the dirt could be hauled directly from his property across the ditch to the landfill without disturbing any state or township roads.

Walter "Shang" Greathouse, president of the Metro-East Sanitary District, also had tentatively given his approval to the plan, Nichols contends. "I spent $1,725 for permits...I did it right and I'm knocked down by the appeals board, so I'm fighting," Nichols told the committee.

The county Zoning Board of Appeals held an on-site public zoning hearing on Nichols' new farm June 29, at which three objects spoke. One, a neighbor, was concerned about blocked access to his home during the earth-moving process and Nichols said he offered to make a new road for the neighbor.

The former owner, Irwin Mueller, spoke against the plan and Nameoki Township Highway Commissioner Frank Melius told the zoning board that he was concerned about damage to township roads. Nichols said that the zoning board "did not even listen when I told them I was not going to use any township roads."

The zoning board met after the hearing and recommended that Nichols special use permit to utilize approximately 100 acres "for surface mining of topsoil from this tract" be denied and passed that recommendation on the Madison County Board.

The following day, Greathouse told Nichols that he could not grant a permit for hauling the dirt over the ditch.

Nichols told the Chamber committee that the only reason he applied for a county permit was so it could be put in writing and made legally binding that he did not plan to turn his property into a landfill. Since the property already was zoned M2 for general manufacturing, the only permit he needed was for disposal of the dirt, which he had received, Nichols contends.

"I spent $1,725 for permits...I did it right and I'm knocked down by the appeals board, so I'm fighting," Nichols told the committee.

involved in modifying other parts to fit. It currently is estimated that yearly maintenance and energy costs for the signals at the three intersections approaches $3,200. Of this amount, the city pays electric costs for all three installations and pays half of the maintenance costs for repairs to the Third Street signals, with the state paying the remainder. The state also pays all maintenance costs for the Sixth Street and 12th Street signals.

Commends override of printing bill veto

Governor James R. Thompson commended Congress Tuesday for overriding a presidential veto that could have been harmful to the printing industry in Illinois and the United States.

"Although President Reagan may have had sound reasons for vetoing the bill, I urged our Illinois Congressional delegation to override the veto to save thousands of jobs that could have been otherwise lost," the governor said.

"While ordinarily as the nation's leading trading state we would have supported the principals of free trade, in this instance protection of the printing industry was an overriding consideration," the governor said.

President Reagan vetoed the bill last Wednesday, which would have extended for four years the clause requiring publications holding United States copyrights to be published in the U.S.

It is estimated that as many as 350,000 jobs in the U.S. and at least half of those in the printing industry, could have been lost.

"The effects of that legislation could have been very detrimental for jobs in Illinois," the governor said. "Illinois leads the nation in printing and we want to do everything we can to stimulate this valuable industry."

Nearly 110,000 men and women work in 3,200 printing firms in Illinois.

The governor particularly commended Rep. Tom Railsback for his efforts in helping assure the override.

The governor had contacted each member of the delegation asking for support.

New law generates funds to upgrade horse racing

Governor James R. Thompson has signed legislation that will raise more than $300,000 a year in horse racing fees to improve the regulation of the horse racing industry.

"This measure and the money it generates will be used to upgrade the Illinois Racing Board's Elgin testing and research laboratory, a facility that is crucial to the state's regulation of the horse racing industry," the governor said.

"Now that the board has banned the use of pain killers and anti-bleeding drugs on horses on race days, about 15,000 more tests will be conducted each year. The funds from this bill, therefore, will be used to equip the Elgin facility to handle increased testing," he said.

House Bill 2508, sponsored by Rep. Thomas Ewing of Pontiac and Sen. John Groberg of St. Charles, increases from $10 to $25 per year the maximum occupational license fee charged to trainers, jockeys, grooms and other track workers. The bill also limits three-year license fees to $60.

Tips for 'beating the heat'

Summertime in the St. Louis area can be an extreme problem for those who are not prepared. A list of "beating the heat" hints has been compiled by Dr. Richard Barry, director of emergency services at Cardinal Glennon Memorial Hospital for Children. They can help to make the summer a little more bearable for adults as well as children, Dr. Barry says.

—Infants should be kept in diapers and undershirts only. For older children and adults, light clothing in light colors should be worn at all times so perspiration will evaporate naturally. Hats are essential when out of doors.

—Drink plenty of fluids. Gatorade for older children and adults; clear fluids, such as apple juice, imitation fruit drinks or white soda, for younger children.

—Avoid heavy exercise or strenuous play.

—Avoid prolonged exposure to direct sunlight. Infants should be kept out of the sun completely.

—Frequent cool baths are especially beneficial.

—Cold steam vaporizers should be used in the home.

—Keep fans on exhaust during the day and on intake at night. Keep ice or cold water in front of the fan for maximum cooling effect.

—Shade all windows in direct sunlight.

"These are precautionary measures only," says Dr. Barry. "They won't make the hot weather go away, but they should make things a little more comfortable."

How to save money on your grocery bills

Here are some important shopping tips

- 1—Check specials in food store advertisements.
- 2—Get to know the butcher and produce manager.
- 3—Find out when deliveries of perishables are made and shop on those days. Fresher foods last longer and consequently, you'll waste less.
- 4—Learn to estimate accurately the amounts of food needed. Keep a record of the amount of food you throw away in a week. It may alert you to ways you can reduce waste.
- 5—For economy and variety, use eggs, dry beans, and peanut butter in place of meat some of the time. These foods provide protein and most other nutrients that meat supplies.
- 6—Use nonfat dry milk, which is less expensive than fluid milk, at least part of the time in cooking and as a beverage.
- 7—By low, economy sizes of non-food items must save you at least 5% over other sizes of the same brand.
- 8—Try to shop as seldom as possible, preferably once a week.
- 9—Always shop with a well thought out shopping list. Try to base your list of foods on your menu for the week.
- 10—Take advantage of the special coupon offers going on at First Granite City Savings in conjunction with your local Schnuck's grocer.

Luke 22:42 "... Nevertheless not my will, but thine, be done."

The fact that prayer can be very hard work is proven by Jesus in Gethsemane. He prayed until his sweat fell as it were, great drops of blood. If Jesus prayed so earnestly to God, then we must expect to do the same.

Notice the cause of such agonizing prayer: not my will, but God's will. Surrender of our will to God is not a battle once fought and forever won. Often times, we must daily pray to submit our will.

However, the results are worth the sacrifice. Jesus said: "For whosoever shall do the will of God, the same is my brother, and my sister, and my mother." This puts us right into the family of God. What a secure place to be.

Submit your will and join the family of God. Today.

Flat tax popular, but care needed to protect charity

No more paranoia about April 15. No more figures on the "amount due IRS" line at the bottom of the 1040 form. No more weeks of preparing the tax forms, all eliminated by a proposed "flat income tax."

It sounds wonderful, but lets look a little closer.

The federal government is considering a proposal to tax a flat percentage of everyone's paycheck each week, say 10 percent. The specifics hereafter are still a little hazy, however, the main idea is to eliminate the annual filing of an income tax statement, except by those who want to do so to get credit for some deduction, such as a charitable contribution.

How sweet it would be, April 15 would be just another day that came and went. No panic. No lineups at the post office at midnight. No 18-hour days for employees of tax preparation firms. No bank loans to pay your taxes. Ahh.

However, every one has two sides. With the lack of the above things to support a lack of charitable contributions to support the United Way, colleges, Heart Fund, Cancer Society, Lung Association and many, numerous other organizations which aid those who need aid.

Tax preparation companies could be forced out of business, unless they had sufficient commercial accounts to keep their staffs busy.

Modern banking and investing could change drastically without new tax deferred saving and investment plans. The marketability of tax free bonds could be reduced. This would include the industrial revenue bonds which have played such a great part in the recent development of St. Elizabeth Medical Center, Michigan State and other commercial developments.

We guess "caution" should be the byword. Congress should carefully examine the various effects that would have and attempt to compensate for them, if possible. If a flat tax system, with annual filing for refunds for charitable contributions and other deductions, enacted, the system for filing such credits should be greatly simplified.

Alpine Village a tribute to 'Never Give Up' spirit

In times of high unemployment, high interest rates and deep recession, it is refreshing to report some good news. Such was the news of the grand opening of the David Connole Alpine Village Shopping Center at Third Street and Madison Avenue in Madison.

It is a symbol that hard work, creative financing and dedication can pay off. It would have been very easy for Madison city officials to throw up their hands when they saw interest rates climbing and grant funds drying up. They could have said that the downtown area looked good enough with its new Alpine look and could get by with a few more years of waiting for the Alpine theme, the Alpine Village.

Instead, Comptroller Albert Hudzik, guided by Mayor Mike Sasyk and other city officials, dug in and overcame the adversity, nailing down the scarce grant money, securing the bonds, signing up the tenants, Farm Fresh and Reese Drugs, awarding the construction contracts and overseeing erection of the giant building. It is a fitting tribute to the late Commander David Connole of Madison, winner of the Silver Star and numerous other commendations and commander of the USS Trigger submarine, which was lost in action.

It also is a tribute to the Madison city officials and to the American spirit of overcoming adversity through hard work and creativity. Everyone involved should be commended and we hope Reese Drugs and Farm Fresh find a comfortable and prosperous home there.

Representative District which included my home town of Madison, was at one point was only one township wide. It snaked through seven counties, 60 townships, 40 communities, four congressional districts and three telephone area codes. It was denounced throughout the state as the ultimate example of political gerrymandering.

Because I believed the originally drawn 8th District violated the Illinois Constitution's redistricting requirement for compactness, I challenged the district map in the Illinois Supreme Court. The Supreme Court upheld the challenge and redrew the district.

It is because of this experience that I believe my first priority to try to take pure partisan politics out of the redistricting process.

Districts should not be drawn to please or punish certain politicians. They should be drawn to reflect the needs of the individuals and communities we are elected to serve. This is a proposal in the right direction.

The proposed amendment permits the speaker of the House, the president of the Senate, and the governor to select a computer firm to do the programming and print-out work. The computer would be fed census information from the latest decennial census and the state's municipal, township and county boundary lines.

It would then be directed to create maps with districts which are as compact, contiguous and equal in population as possible, while at the same time respecting the greatest extent possible the existing governmental boundaries.

Districts drawn within large cities would utilize the neighborhood boundaries presently used by the U.S. Bureau of the Census. Each political party as well as a citizen "watchdog" group appointed by the governor would be allowed to observe as the programming and print-out work.

The sponsors of the proposal recognize that this year's deadline for the consideration of constitutional amendments has passed.

But we hope candidates for the next General Assembly will give their support to the concept of non-partisan, unbiased redistricting. The idea is to come up with a map drawn for people, not politicians.

Students visit sand dune park

As part of Belleville Area College's ecology and field biology class, a field trip was taken to the Indiana Dunes State Park late last week. Instructor Leo Welch said Monday the camping trip was the high point of the class, which is designed to help students understand the local environment and to study the landscape by observing plants and animals common to an area.

Indiana Dunes State Park is the starting point of the study of plant ecology in North America, according to Welch. This makes it especially valuable for students to study, he believes.

Other sites visited during the trip included Funks Grove, the only remaining prairie grove in Illinois; Cemetery Prairie, one of the few remaining tall grass prairies; and the Illinois State Museum in Springfield.

The students also stopped at Wolf Park in Battle Ground, Ind., where they met Eric Klinghammer, an international expert on wolf behavior.

"There was good response from the students," Welch said. "They seemed to enjoy it very much."

Ecology and field biology, a college-transfer laboratory course, will be offered in the fall as an eight-week course, Seminar in Biology (Field Biology).

The class will meet from 8:30 a.m. to 12:10 p.m. on Saturdays for the first eight weeks of the semester.

Registration for fall classes is from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Thursday, and from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Friday, at the registrar's office, Room 2306, of the main campus, 2500 Carlyle Road.

Students also can register by calling 235-7900 during the above times.

Phone registration ends Friday, July 30. Regular registration ends Wednesday, Aug. 25.

WE'LL HAVE TO MAKE IT 17 OR 18 PER CENT OR IT WON'T WORK!
...A 'FLAT-TAX' OK. IF WE GIVE A BREAK TO THOSE WHO MAKE LESS THAN $15,000.

LET'S HAVE A 'FLAT' INCOME TAX... SAY 10% OF THE TOP FOR EVERYBODY... NO DEDUCTIONS... NO LOOPHOLES...

LET'S PUT IN JUST A FEW TEENY DEDUCTIONS FOR HOUSING AND GIVING TO CHARITIES...

TO MAKE IT FAIR, LET'S MAKE IT 25% FOR THOSE WHO MAKE BELOW $40,000. AND 40% FOR THOSE WHO MAKE MORE... THEN THERE'S TAX INCENTIVES TO CONSIDER...

IF WE RESCIND NEXT YEAR'S TAX CUTS AND INDEXING... THINK WE WOULD HAVE WORKABLE 'FLAT-TAX'!

Takes stand against higher income taxes

Legislators and candidates for the General Assembly have joined me, the GOP state comptroller nominee, Adlai Stevenson, Cook County Assessor Thomas Hynes and Chicago Alderman Roman Pucinski are playing loose with the facts and are misleading taxpayers on the cause of high property taxes.

High property taxes are caused exclusively by local politicians who pass higher and higher levies ordinances. The multiplier by itself has nothing to do with the problem. It's an entirely false issue.

Stevenson, who is trying to be governor, and Alderman Pucinski, who wants to be mayor of Chicago, are staging the shell game.

The advisory multiplier petition they are circulating is nothing but a way for the governor to use taxpayers to help him win the next election.

Taxpayers should be outraged at this cheap election gimmick. If Pucinski wants to cut property taxes for Chicago taxpayers, he can circulate petitions to allow taxpayers to repeal Chicago's unlimited "home rule" tax power next spring.

Repealing "home rule" will cut property taxes for an average Chicago homeowner by approximately $150 every year.

Pucinski is not circulating "home rule" tax cut petitions because he does not really want to cut property taxes. Pucinski is an enemy of Chicago taxpayers.

County Assessor Thomas Hynes is a hypocrite. While he was a member of the Illinois General Assembly, he would not support any tax cut.

High property taxes are caused exclusively by local politicians who pass higher and higher levies ordinances. The multiplier by itself has nothing to do with the problem. It's an entirely false issue.

Stevenson, who is trying to be governor, and Alderman Pucinski, who wants to be mayor of Chicago, are staging the shell game.

The advisory multiplier petition they are circulating is nothing but a way for the governor to use taxpayers to help him win the next election.

Taxpayers should be outraged at this cheap election gimmick. If Pucinski wants to cut property taxes for Chicago taxpayers, he can circulate petitions to allow taxpayers to repeal Chicago's unlimited "home rule" tax power next spring.

Repealing "home rule" will cut property taxes for an average Chicago homeowner by approximately $150 every year.

Pucinski is not circulating "home rule" tax cut petitions because he does not really want to cut property taxes. Pucinski is an enemy of Chicago taxpayers.

County Assessor Thomas Hynes is a hypocrite. While he was a member of the Illinois General Assembly, he would not support any tax cut.

Cal SKINNER, Belleville, Ill.

To the Editor:

I am president of National Taxpayers Union of Illinois (NTUI), Illinois' largest taxpayer organization.

Adlai Stevenson, Cook County Assessor Thomas Hynes and Chicago Alderman Roman Pucinski are playing loose with the facts and are misleading taxpayers on the cause of high property taxes.

Less than five minutes rain at 12:30 o'clock today was the only respite afforded Tri-Cityans from the fierce heat wave which has gripped this community for ten consecutive days. The downpour was of such short duration that it served more to steam up the air than to cool things off. The drops fell on scorching pavements and the atmosphere was more oppressive after the rain than before it occurred. So great is the need of relief that many individuals avow they will dash from their shelters to stand in the midst of any downpour which might fall. Since the thermometer climbed to 99 degrees ten days ago, never a day passed that the mercury was not 97 or above. Most of the time it has ranged from 99 to 101 degrees. Two deaths have been reported from the heat.

A study to determine whether fluoride should be added to drinking water in this area is being started by a committee of the Venice city council, and there are indications that the proposal also will be considered by a number of other cities in the district served by the East St. Louis & Interurban Water Co. Venice's ad-hoc committee on health and safety was asked to study the plan Friday night by Mayor John E. Lee, a dentist, who said the fluoride is considered harmless and is known to improve the teeth of those drinking it in water. He reported that a renewed effort is being made to gain approval for the change.

A state-sponsored plan to build a new drainage ditch that would relieve the Dobrey Slough area in Nameoki Township of flooding during heavy rains goes into its third year this week — but so far not a shovel of dirt has been turned and there is little prospect of beginning work in the immediate future. Renewed efforts to get the project moving were initiated last week in a public meeting attended by more than 100 persons in the Nameoki Town Hall. Charges that "politics" and "huck and blow" have been primarily responsible for the long delay in construction of the drainage improvement were made by several Dobrey Slough area residents. Their criticisms were aimed principally at the levee board for its failure to secure the right-of-way necessary for construction of a drainage canal to relieve Dobrey flooding.

Workshop on establishing recycling centers in state

Illinois has moved a step closer in establishing recycling centers in communities throughout the state.

Peter B. Fox, Director of the Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs (IDCCA), announced that IDCCA, in cooperation with the Illinois Association of Recycling Centers, is sponsoring a two-day workshop to promote community-based recycling collection centers.

The workshop, scheduled for Aug. 26 and 27 at the Americana Congress Hotel in Chicago, is entitled "Recycling Means Business: New Jobs From Old Resources." Focusing on various aspects of setting up and operating a recycling business, the workshop will cover such topics as local market potential, start-up requirements and operational costs.

The keynote speaker for the event is vice president of materials for National Can Corporation, Lowell Hoffman, who will address the beneficial impact of recycling on the Illinois economy. Additionally, there will be discussions and exhibits on various recyclable materials such as aluminum, paper, metals, glass and used oil. The workshop will conclude with a field visit to a local recycling facility.

"We see recycling as a growing small business opportunity in Illinois," said Fox. "There is a need for locally based collection centers and, in most areas of the state, the local markets are just waiting to be tapped."

"Currently, Illinois has nearly 10 percent of the total number of local recycling centers in the United States and it is our intention to actively encourage the establishment of more of these local small businesses," Fox added.

Registration is limited to the first 90 applications. Cost for the two-day workshop is $15, in addition to overnight accommodations. For registration information, interested persons may contact Jeffrey J. Mitchell

Sr. of DCCA's Community Energy Conservation Program at 355 West Adams, Fourth Floor, Springfield, Ill. 62706, or telephone 1-217-785-2264.

Cafeteria talks begin; fewer custodians

Talks are beginning today with cafeteria employees, following continued cost-cutting by the Granite City Board of Education.

The start of negotiations with cooks, the only group not currently in the middle of a two-year agreement, was reported by School Supt. B. J. Davis after a board meeting Tuesday night.

The board this week effected an estimated $27,000 yearly saving by enacting new guidelines for cleaning of school buildings. The figure is based on a reduction of eight custodial employees, to be achieved through attrition.

The policy change initially was discussed June 28 by the board, which deferred consideration until this week to allow for discussions with Service Employees Local 98.

Supt. Davis noted Tuesday night that the policy amendment was "reviewed by the board's policy committee July 15. The union was present and stated its concerns relative to the policy."

"These concerns were based around the fear of overloading the remaining employees, and the cleanliness of the school buildings."

"The committee discussed this with the union, pointing out there may have to be some adjustments made as circumstances indicate. It was then voted by the policy committee to recommend it to the board."

The new policy statement lists four factors in determining the number of personnel at a building—

—Enrollment.

—Scheduled activities of the building.

—The task: Clean a classroom, 20 minutes; clean a kitchen, 20; per fixture in restroom, 2½ minutes; kindergarten, 30; clean an office area, 10; clean a multi-purpose room, 18; and each 1,200 square feet of corridor, five minutes.

—Determination of the director of buildings and grounds (Ronald Landman).

Minimum performance standards, are outlined in the policy.

The board decided Tuesday night to interview several new applicants for the newly-created position of custodial supervisor. Six persons interested in the job were interviewed several months ago but it was not filled.

All applicants seen this spring and summer will be considered when a decision is made. Two or three interviews are expected to be held during the next board meeting on Aug. 3.

GRANITE CITY CENTRE SYMBOL.

Alan Richardson, executive vice president of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce, formally presented the new logo for the organization of merchants and city officials involved in the redevelopment of the downtown area to Mayor Paul Schuler at 11:15 this morning. The lamplight is intended to reflect the past traditions of the city.

'Talent for MDA' Friday night

The third annual "Talent for Muscular Dystrophy" show is Friday night at Polish Hall in Madison. The show will start at 7 p.m.

Tickets are on sale from any performer for $2 or may be purchased at the door for $3. Children, 5 years old and under, will be admitted free, related Deloris Hay, chairman of the show.

"Century, Ltd., is one of the big performers we have in the show. They're a super band. Don McCormik is working the audio," said Mrs. Hay. She also noted, "Joan Myracle has been working as co-chairman."

This years talent includes the following: Kristin Stephens, dancer; Shari Stephens, dancer; Sweet Adelines, singing group; Bob Barton, singer; Kim Myracle, dancer; Karen Myracle, dancer; Toni and Traci Claro, dancers; JoAnn Claro, singer and Shawnta Ray, a 5-year-old dancer.

Also Kimberly Dawn and the Bib Family, band; Ginger Booker, singer; Mike E. Coleman and Hank E. Pankney, ventriloquist; Steve Hay, Karen Abrams and Mike Moore, comic scene and Den 4, Pack 13, Boy Scouts, novelty show. Door prizes are going to be given away and the lounge will be available for food and drinks.

"The show is very reasonable and we've got fantastic performers from all over the area. If anyone wants tickets or more information on the show call me at 451-6276," Mrs. Hay concluded.

Aircraft watching automobile speeds

Handicap doesn't stop Mulach from 'par' life

Jack Mulach on the course and the putting green.

By ALAN L. GERSTENECKER
Sports Editor
of the Press-Record

Jack Mulach stood silently on the practice putting green near the Arlington Golf Course clubhouse.

The approaching visitor stopped before Mulach began his stroke. Mulach's putter slowed as it neared the cup and veered to the left.

Feeling somewhat uneasy, the visitor once again approached the putting green.

Mulach turned and smiled. "How are you," Mulach beamed.

"Fine," came the response as the two shook hands.

Mulach's friendliness immediately rid the visitor of his uneasiness.

After a brief conversation in the shade near the putting green, the two retired to the comfort of the clubhouse.

Once in the clubhouse, Mulach's popularity was evident as numerous persons greeted the golfer.

"Hi Jack," said one.

"Nice to see you Jack," said another. "Is it hot enough for you Jack," said yet another.

At 1:15 p.m., the sun was high and the temperature was in the mid 90's.

After brief greetings, Mulach and the visitor made their way to an open table in the corner.

"Where do we start," Mulach said sitting down and wiping the perspiration from his brow with a handkerchief.

At first, conversation came slowly. Mulach began with a brief history about himself.

"I'm 51, currently principal at Maryville School in Granite City. I love soccer, golf and baseball," Mulach said.

He continued: "In 1951 I graduated from St. Mary's High School in South St. Louis. Later that year I joined the Marines."

The conversation continued, only at first, both talked around the obvious. Mulach is handicapped.

He lost his left arm just below the shoulder at 19 when he was an infantryman with the Marines during the Korean War.

Finally, the visitor inquired. "What about your arm Jack, and how tough was the adjustment?" the visitor asked.

"Yes, at first it was tough," Mulach said. "When I first returned home I wouldn't go out of the house without the prosthesis (artificial arm)." Mulach said. "I didn't want people to know, I wanted to give it back to the military."

He feels differently about his handicap now, and seldom wears the arm.

Monday afternoon, for example, he golfed without his prosthesis. His sleeve was neatly pinned to his golf shirt.

Mulach, vacationing for the summer, has been working to improve his golf game. Recently, he finished second in the Missouri-Illinois Amputee Golf Tournament held at the Arlington club.

Another tournament is scheduled for September 25.

The conversation drifted away from golf and Mulach spoke openly about the Korean War and its effects on him and America at the time.

"The Korean War was a policy war," he said. "We didn't agree with North Korea's ideals and so we fought against them."

People thought differently in the '50s, Mulach said. "Back then I didn't question why we were over there fighting the Koreans. I was only 19, and so were most of the guys over there. We just did it. We all did because our commander said it was what was best for our country," Mulach said.

Today, things are much different, he said.

"Kids seem to be more thought oriented. They questioned the Viet Nam War. I'm not saying that's good or bad," he said. "I'm just saying we (those who fought in Korea) just didn't question the motives or reasons," he said. "I think you can be outspoken without being disrespectful," Mulach said.

At that point Mulach seemed willing to about his personal experiences in Korea.

He was wounded on two different occasions in the war. The first time, he was wounded on the leg and in one eye. The eye nearly had to be removed.

The second time, the time he lost his arm, he recalls more vividly.

"I was a member of the first Marine division. Our instructions were to take this hill that North Koreans occupied," he said. "Of all things, it was named Bunker Hill. There was no bunker there, we just gave every hill a name," he said.

It just happened. A mortar shell landed right next to me. I remember lying there on my back afterwards in a semi-conscious state," he said.

"I knew my arm was gone then," Mulach said.

"I probably would have died there, but some corpsman slapped a tourniquet on me to stop the bleeding. He injected me with morphine, or whatever they had to relieve the pain," he said.

"The next thing I remember is waking up in what resembled a MASH (Mobile Army Surgical Hospital) unit," Mulach said.

He said the MASH units were really as they are depicted on the popular television series MASH.

"That was it. They patch you up and get you on your way. There was little time for sympathy, they wouldn't allow it," he said.

Like most amputees, Mulach experienced a period of depression after losing his arm. He managed to overcome his loss and soon after returning home began to "normalize" his life.

In 1957, he received his bachelor's degree in education from Washington University in St. Louis. Later that year, Mulach began teaching physical education for the Granite City School District at Marshall School.

"I didn't have any problem teaching physical education without the arm," he said. "Kids seem easily satisfied with knowing I lost it in the war."

Two years later, he received his master's degree also from Washington University. In the fall of 1959 he was transferred to Central Junior High School where he taught language arts and social studies. He remained at Central until 1965 when he was made principal of McKinley School.

In 1967, Mulach became only the second principal ever at Maryville School, a position he still holds today.

His wife, Margaret, who he met in college, also teaches in the Granite City district.

Mulach's love of teaching is only surpassed by his love of sports. Before Korea, Mulach played high school soccer and baseball. When in Marine boot camp in San Diego, Calif., he received notice he had been chosen to play class B baseball for a New York Dodgers farm club.

Even after the war, Mulach didn't let his handicap deprive him of his love for sports. When he was a student at Washington University, he was a member of that University's baseball team. He played left field. Although he played soccer before the war, he said, he enjoyed soccer even more so after the war for obvious reasons. Today, he lists soccer as his most favorite sport.

As for golf, Mulach has only been playing for seven years. He took it up because, he says, he has friends who play golf. Jack's light spirited attitude has made him a favorite on and off the golf course.

Jack's only handicap on the golf course or elsewhere is merely his strokes above par.

Glen Carbon playoff rally upsets East Alton 10-4

By NANCY WEIL
of the Press-Record

It would be interesting if the American Legion baseball season were played over again with Glen Carbon starting in the way it finished. Undoubtedly, the standings would be considerably different. Glen Carbon proved it has the potential to play winning baseball—very good baseball in fact.

In Monday's first round of play-offs, Glen Carbon came from behind twice against East Alton and eventually won 10-4 after a six-hit, six-run rally in the sixth inning.

The hitting was good. The defense was better than usual and Paul Barrington's pitching was generally on target except from some slight control problems. "His hands were so sweaty," Larry Corey, Glen Carbon coach said.

The team has no rosin bag, he said. "I saw the ball slipping out of his hand," Corey said. It was extremely hot and humid Monday evening, but the temperature did not seem to bother Glen Carbon.

Except for some problems defensively, "we were a little shaky," Corey said, Glen Carbon played exceptionally well after getting off to a slow start.

East Alton scored one in the first, but Glen Carbon came back to tie the game in its half and take the lead, 2-1, in the second inning.

The second inning gave the clearest indication of what was to come. Rod Hessler walked and went to second on a wild pitch. Sam Tate, hit a blooper over the second baseman's head. Paul Barrington, who has suffered some hitting problems this year, came through with a single that bounced into the outfield past the shortstop to bring Hessler home.

With only 10 players remaining on the team for the final game and play-offs, it would seem that Glen Carbon was at a distinct disadvantage. But everybody played hard Monday realizing there were no replacements waiting on the bench.

For instance, catcher Vince Mitchell made a diving catch for a foul ball in the second. Through the game, Glen Carbon made catches on three fouls for during the game. He came home on a double to center by Greg Beeler. Brian Levin doubled to center to bring Beeler home.

Glen Carbon's defense shut East Alton down from the fourth inning until the finish. But Glen Carbon was far from finished offensively.

In the sixth inning with two outs—

Legion playoff schedule

The Tri-City American Legion baseball team will play Collinsville Saturday at 8 p.m. in the first round of the District 22 North Division double elimination tournament.

The game will be played at Arthur Fletcher Field in Woodland Park.

Collinsville, which was second in the North Division regular season, has the home field advantage. Tri-City was third in the regular season standings.

Alton, the North Division winner, will host either Edwardsville or Highland Saturday afternoon, Highland plays at Edwardsville tonight to determine the fourth place playoff spot.

The time and place for all other double elimination games will be scheduled on a day-to-day basis. The team which placed higher in the regular season will host the playoff game.

In the South Division double elimination tournament, Waterloo plays at South Division winner Marissa Saturday evening, and Belleville plays at Fairview Heights at 2 p.m.

outs. Everything was fair so far as they were concerned.

In the sixth, Tate made an excellent catch on the run in left field as he first dove for the ball, then rolled and came up in one quick motion with his glove held high, the catch on display.

Then there was the hitting. East Alton took a 4-2 lead in the third inning with four hits, one of which was an over-the-fence, two-run homer. Glen Carbon went through two at bats before coming up with the tying run in the fifth.

Barrington singled between first and second; his second hit in as many bats after two batters—Tate was walked and went to second on a wild pitch.

Barrington doubled for his third hit, bringing Tate home. Carl Luehmann singled and went to second on the throw home trying to get Barrington. He was safe. Beeler singled to bring Luehmann in. Levin singled. Mitchell singled to bring Beeler home. Scott Corey singled to bring Levin home. Hessler reached on an error by the second baseman to bring Scott Mitchell around.

"Incredible," Corey said of the game. "It was the highlight of my season." If only the beginning could have resembled the ending...

basegame. "Edwardsville's pitcher was pretty good, I thought. He did throw strikes.

"Sam pitched good too," he said. "Both the pitchers got the ball over."

Throughout the season, various Glen Carbon team members lacked hustle and seemed as if they were not completely interested in playing baseball.

This was not, however, the case with the 10 remaining players who far differed. "The nine or 10 left really wanted to play ball," Corey said.

Of the team members who played in the play-offs, Corey said nine will be returning. Carl Luehmann will be too old next year, he said.

SLIDING HOME. Vince Mitchell of the Glen Carbon American Legion baseball team starts his slide into home to score a run in the sixth inning against East Alton. Glen Carbon defeated East Alton in the first round of the District 22 North Division single elimination tournament but lost to Edwardsville 2-0 Tuesday. Glen Carbon is now eliminated from further playoff action. (Press-Record photo by Roger Kramer)

Edwardsville ends GC season

By NANCY WEIL
of the Press-Record

At 15, Glen Carbon pitcher, Sam Tate has faced a tough challenge all season, throwing to players with a great deal more experience at bat than he has on the mound. Tuesday night, against Edwardsville, Tate felt the impression that he has all the potential in the world to develop his pitching talents.

Although Glen Carbon lost 2-0, the second game of the play-offs, was a far cry from the two 9-2 losses to Edwardsville during the regular season.

The defense played well without error, but the hitting just was not there for Glen Carbon. "You get beat when you get two hits," Larry Corey, Glen Carbon coach said.

Five strike outs did not help much either. Although both hits, a single by Greg Beeler in the first and a single by Vince Mitchell in the fourth, made it to the outfield, Glen Carbon could not capitalize.

A bad hop on a ground ball by Edwardsville's Rich Fletcher started off Glen Carbon's problems. Without that bad hop, said Corey, "it would still have been a 1-0 ballgame."

Still, he said, "you have to get shut out. It was definitely a pitcher's

'Missing gloves' turn up at park

The Granite City Park District could open up a second-hand baseball glove store if the summer continues the way it has gone so far. It is not a prospect park district officials are thrilled about.

Fourteen baseball gloves, of all varieties and sizes, are sitting in the park district office awaiting the day the owners come to claim them.

The amount of lost equipment is a source of bewilderment for Mrs.

Champion, who is the wife of Babe Champion, former Granite City High School South baseball coach and now a recruiter for the Phillies, and the mother of two baseball players. She knows quite well the cost of such equipment and cannot imagine that those losing gear would not think to check with the park office.

"As many gloves as we had in the house I always went berserk if one was missing," she said. "They cost so much."

What is even more surprising is that most of the gloves are lost "not by the little guys" in baseball camp and the tee-ball league, but by older players. The unclaimed gloves have been arriving at a steady pace in the park office since the first week of the season.

Only one has been claimed and that was by accident. "We had a family come in to get IDs and as they were walking by they saw a glove," Mrs. Champion said. The glove looked familiar and turned out to belong to the woman's son.

Those who want to check the park office for missing equipment should do so immediately. When equipment is turned in, park office personnel take the name and number of the person who found it. If the item remains unclaimed after 90 days it is given to the person who found it.

Edwardsville spoils Legionnaires 'homecoming'

By ALAN L. GERSTENECKER

of the Press-Record

GRANITE CITY — As far as homecomings go, it was a disaster Monday evening the Granite City Junior American Legion came home. After the game, coach Jeff Parker would have just assumed his young club had remained on the road.

His team, playing at home for the first time since June 30, fell to Edwardsville 17-1.

"I think we've reverted two months tonight," Parker said. "They play fine until they come home to play before mom, dad and their girl friends. I think next year we'll schedule all our games away," Parker said jokingly.

Granite City did have it problems, but much of the credit for the lopsided victory should go to the larger, more experienced Edwardsville team.

First, one thing should be pointed out. More than half of Edwardsville's starting line up Monday evening are at least "veteran" athletes. The first four, Todd Hansel, Brian Paddock, David Lange and Brian Pouch, were members of the Edwardsville High School team that finished fourth last month in Illinois State High School state competition. Another member of Edwardsville's "Cinderella" team, Kent Trebing, batted seventh.

With that kind of line up, Edwardsville scored almost at will. And at least one Edwardsville batter advanced to the basepaths in all five innings. Edwardsville's 17 runs came on 19 hits, while Granite City managed just one hit in the final inning.

With two outs, Pat Cathey singled to avoid the no-hitter for the local boys. Coincidentally, it was Cathey who also scored the only Granite City run. Cathey, who reached on a walk in the fourth inning, advanced home on an error by Edwardsville's John Sisson in right field. Cathey scored when Sisson dropped a ball hit by Granite City's Randy Feltmeyer.

Despite Edwardsville's romp, Granite City had its great moments. In the first inning with only one out, Edwardsville loaded the bases. Scoring seemed inevitable.

The fifth batter, Tim Brinkman, cracked a ball to left field. That hit, under ordinary circumstances, would have easily scored the runner from third.

In an textbook exhibition of hitting the relay man, Feltmeyer, after catching the ball for the out, relayed the ball to cut off man Tom Stegemeier who drilled the ball home to Scott Grote in time for the out at the plate. The double play, of sorts, kept Edwardsville scoreless, something Granite City did in only one other inning.

Edwardsville was not stifled for long. In the second inning they erupted for six runs on six hits. To start the inning, Jim Blythe, Bill Caldwell and Rod Strohmeyer each tagged Granite City starting pitcher Kelly Krausz for singles. Strohmeyer's single scored Blythe, and Edwardsville was on a roll that ended only after a half dozen runners crossed the plate.

For all intents and purposes, Edwardsville's six hits and seven runs in the third inning put the game out of reach.

Bob Dietrich relieved Krausz in the third, but had an equally difficult time with Edwardsville's batters.

Following a scoreless fourth inning, Edwardsville managed four more runs in the fifth before the Pouch fled out to Granite City's Mark Vanyo.

The win adjusts Edwardsville's record to 14-12 on the season, while Granite City's record falls to 4-12.

This evening, Granite City will face Greenville at South's Varsity Field. Action begins at 7 p.m.

NEW UNIFORMS. Before Monday's game against Edwardsville, members of Granite City's Junior American Legion baseball team sport their new uniforms. The uniforms, navy blue with lighter blue accent jerseys and white pants, were sponsored in cooperation with local businesses. Team members (beginning from

Civics edge Lafayette Browns 6-5

By AL BARNES

For the Press-Record
It looked like a season-long jinx which the West (St. Louis) County Browns have held over the Southwestern Illinois Civics in baseball was going to happen again last night at Granite City South's diamond.

Going into the top of the ninth inning, the Civics were out in front of the powerful and hard-hitting Browns by a 5 to 0 score. Hard-throwing Tim Rakers of Belleville was on the mound for the Civics and was coasting along and breezing. Although the Missourians had scored three runs on him, he'd allowed just three skippy hits and it looked like he had his fifth victory as against no defeats.

Then, in the top of the ninth, Joe Cunningham Jr., son of the former major leaguer and Cardinals sales promotion man, led off with a screaming single to center field. Rakers bore down and fanned the next batter, Joe Gasaway. Then up stepped the diminutive but burly Keith Gutin. His single in the third frame was the first safety that Rakers had given up.

Without any ado, Gutin blasted Raker's first pitch and the ball jumped out of the park over the center field fence and suddenly the ball game was all tied up at 5-5. But, worst of all, it began to appear that it would be the second tied ball game that the two ball clubs would play in the last two weeks, because of the regulation in effect at 10:30 p.m. because of the neighbors, etc., etc.

When the Civics came to bat it was 10:28 p.m.

Their leadoff man, Tim Kavanagh, was first up. After two balls, Tim blasted a shot into left field. Tim Gamble then sacrificed Kava to second. The Browns then walked Bill Stolle on purpose for a possible free out or double play.

Jim Greenwald, the veteran outfielder from Granite City was next up and the Browns, who know only too well of Greene's power at bat, pitched very carefully to him and finally walked him.

With the bases loaded, Darrel Wehrand, the Civics' all-around outfielder and tough out at bat, hit the first pitch medium deep to left field. Rich Wiesner made a great catch for the out. Standout throw, but the speedy Kavanagh beat the throw to the plate and the Civics had pulled it out, 6-5.

The victory makes the Civics' record 23-17-1, while the Browns dropped to 19-7-1. If the Civics beat the Cape Girardeau, Capahas Saturday in the Missouri State National Baseball Congress tournament at Maryville College in a game at 3 p.m., then they have the chance, once again at the Browns Sunday at 12:30 p.m.

Rakers was brilliant on the mound for the Civics and, although he only fanned three standouts, he was helped by a flock of fielding gnomes by his teammates. Two of these standouts played by Tim Kavanagh at third base, which were nothing less than sensational. And, the third was by Bill Stolle in right field and the Browns' Dave Thielke was his victim.

Stolle's great catch after turning and running straight back with his back to the playing field, turned just in time to catch the ball right against the fence at the 355 foot mark. Outstanding.

Said player-manager Bobby Hughes: "Our defense is really jelling. The fellows have been turning some great plays. Now, with our pitching apparently straightened out, we could really make a run for the tournament championship."

Rascals: Learning football

By AL BARNES

In addition to the Granite City Park District athletic programs and those teams sponsored by the junior high schools and high schools in Granite City, Madison and Venice, there are other organizations who are very active in the promotions of sports in the area.

One of the most successful is the Granite City Little Rascals Boys Football Club, which is, according to the group's athletic director, Mike Harris, a non-profit organization.

Says Harris: "We sponsor at least four teams a year in an inter-city tackle football league, which consists of 13 teams in the surrounding cities and is called the Tri-

City Football League."

Harris, who can be reached by calling 452-2317, explained that he and his co-workers receive no funds from the City or the Park District. "We rely on donations from the public and private business and our own efforts. We just recently held our first softball tournament to raise money for our next season's equipment and other necessities."

He went on to explain: "Last season we had 120 boys and some 50 girls participate in our program. After registration, we equip each boy with a complete uniform and equipment with the NOCSA seal according to IHSA rules. The boys are then assigned to teams according to age and weight requirements. The teams are coached by volunteers who have had backgrounds and some experience in the game of football."

Harris goes on to explain that for the past six years "I have been with the organization which represents Granite City when traveling to other cities to play football."

He went on to make a plea for more support of his program by the media. "The boys play a good grade of football and are deserving of the newspapers' recognition."

He added: "We are not affiliated with the park district or the school district, but the Granite City and Madison school districts do permit us to practice on their fields. And we play our home games at the Granite City South field."

He concludes: "I could go on talking and talking forever about our football program. I am sure that John Hamm, our group's president, who can be called at 877-1051, joins me in my offer to meet with and talk to anyone who may be interested in joining our group."

Personally, I think these men are deserving of much thanks for their efforts with and for the young people.

$41,027 in motor fuel tax

Illinois townships and road districts have been allotted $3,315,954 as their share of motor fuel tax paid into the state treasury during June, according to the Illinois Department of Transportation.

Motor fuel tax funds are allocated monthly to the various townships and road districts for their highway needs. The monies allocated are computed on the basis of mileage in the individual townships and road districts. These units of government must levy a tax for road and bridge purposes to be eligible for motor fuel tax allocation.

Madison County, with a mileage of 879 was allotted $41,027 during June.

State's energy-efficient homes are successful, fuel bills show

Utility bills recorded from two of Illinois' energy-efficient homes indicate sizeable savings, according to Michael B. Witte, director of the Illinois Department of Energy and Natural Resources.

The homes were constructed by the Decatur Area Vocational Center as part of ENR's Solar 80 Program. Construction on the new homes was ending "The utility bills for the spring of 1981 and both were sold and occupied by November of the same year."

"According to an analysis conducted by ENR staff, both homes came close to their predicted levels of efficiency, despite the abnormally-severe weather we experienced," Witte said.

Both homes are ranch style with about 1,600 square feet of floor area and heated basements. Each home contains 129 square feet of glass. The first, reflecting southern exposure and the second on a modestly sized sunspace for solar heat gain. Natural gas heats both homes by means of a conventional forced-air furnace in the first and a hydro-pulse boiler in the second.

During the design stage, ENR staff calculated the predicted thermal performance and the energy consumption of the homes by using the Solar Load Ratio method developed by the Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory. Witte said, "The utility bills for the past winter were then analyzed." Witte noted the Solar Load Ratio Method is the most accepted and commonly-used method in the United States for industrial purposes.

The two homes used 352 and 430 therms, respectively, for space heating, which translates into less than $200 per heating season, according to Witte. The space heating efficiency of these homes was analyzed to be 1.30 BTUs per square foot of heated floor space per degree day for the house with southern exposure and 2.50 BTUs per square foot per degree day for the sunspace house.

"The generally-accepted indicator of a good energy-efficient passive design home is 3.00 BTUs per square foot per degree day and these homes fall well below that level," Witte said. The difference between actual and predicted levels would have been even less, had the occupants installed the night window insulation which was assumed in ENR's original analysis, according to Witte.

"A computerized analysis program based on the Solar Load Ratio calculation method is being developed by ENR's alternative energy section," Witte said. The program will be offered to engineers, builders, architects and other interested parties this fall. The program can potentially increase the marketability of future homes and offices, by predicting the energy efficiency levels of a given building.

GC abolishes supervisors' compensations

Granite City department heads will no longer be allowed to take time off in compensation for hours they might have to work beyond their normal work week.

The concept of compensation benefits had been under attack during recent budget discussions. Recently, the city engineer, Monroe Brewer, was ordered to reimburse the city for compensation time taken for a week of Naval reserve training.

Alderman Sharon Perjak of the Fourth Ward, made the motion to reject the practice. Her motion was approved 8 to 4. She made the motion after conducting a closed caucus in which a personnel problem involving compensation time was discussed.

Alderman Michael Modrusic of the Seventh Ward, who voted against the motion, said the policy appears to be abused. He reminded council members, however, that department heads often have to be called out on emergencies beyond their normal hours, without compensation.

Bank zoning change OK'd

The Granite City Council took the first step Tuesday night towards amending its relatively new zoning ordinance to include banking and other financial institutions in a more stringent classification.

The council Tuesday night approved the recommendation of the city's Planning Commission to allow banks to locate within a C-1 zone rating, reserved for professional offices. Banks currently are restricted to C-4 zoning areas, until the zoning ordinance is amended.

The request for the reclassification was made by Attorney Leo Konzen, representing Granite City Trust and Savings Bank. The change must now be brought to the council floor in ordinance form before final approval.

Alderman Sharon Perjak of the Fourth Ward, asked the council to defer action on another zoning request by Konzen, which did not receive an earlier quorum recommendation from the Planning Commission. In that request, the bank sought the commissioners' approval for a C-1 zoning classification for a strip of land at Maryville Road and Buenger Boulevard. The bank tentatively plans to locate an automatic banking facility at the site.

Zoning recommendations of the Planning Commission for land outside the city limits generally considered at the time the question of annexation is brought before the council.

The council approved the zoning request of John Jaros for light industrial zoning for his property at 1420 State St. A building on the property will be used to store precious and semi-precious metals, Jaros said earlier at the Planning Commission meeting.
